Bryan Pays His Respects to Chauncey M. Depew, "Ancient Mariner of Republican Party"

Declares Buoyant, Likable New Yorker Might Have Had Highest Honors, but Chose to Serve New York Central Railroad Instead.

By William Jennings Bryan.

(Copyright, 1920, by W. J. Bryan.)

CHICAGO, June 10.—The second day's session was, as usual, a very brief one. The second day of a national convention sees very little actual work done. The committee on permanent organization reported in favor of Senator Lodge for permanent chairman—a sad disappointment to the friends of ex-Senator

Beveridge, who were anxious to give him a chance to sound a second keynote.

The Senator from Massachusetts aroused genuine applause when he stated that he would not make a speech. He did not improve the opportunity offered to withdraw anything he said yesterday or to add anything that he had left out. Over in London they have a very apt phrase, viz., "cabwit," which they use to describe the bright thoughts that come to a speaker as he rides home from a meeting. Senator Lodge evidently walked home. He might have called attention to the Volstead act and told how a Republicans Congress had by an overwhelming vote put into statutory language the national prohibition amendment—a triumph for the nation's conscience. His bitterness against the President might even have found expression in the suggestion that a Republican Congress put war prohibition into effect in spite of an executive veto, but not a word on this important subject.

Soldiers' Bonus Not Mentioned.

He might have described the issue of National as the Republicans voted for it. He might have pledged his party to continue a fight for an international triennial in which disputes between nations may be settled without resort to war. This subject could have even him a great chance to picture

his party as an angel of peace

guarding the world against future war. But no. He did not even mention a bonus to the soldiers who in the last war. The burning issues remained unspoken and the convention was turned over to that ancient mariner, the Hon. Chauncey

Depew, the most popular living representative of big business who has appeared in American politics during the last 50 years.

The talent for humor of which he has a monopoly has been on tap for many decades, when a serious situation needed to be enlivened.

The visitors had the privilege of looking upon the most striking il-ed opportunity. The former Senator from New York is now four scores in spirit, agile of mind and unexmental ability was studiously developed and he entered life with as much vigor as a young man.

high honors that it had to give, and shared himself a place among the

Lowden Paymaster Again Demonstrates His Control Over Missouri Delegates

MISSOURI CAUCUS VOTES AGAINST OUSTING BABLER

Resolution to Rescind National Committeeman's Re-election Voted Down by Delegates, 23 1/2 to 11 1/2.

CAMPAIGN MONEY RUMORS CIRCULATED

Cole Threatens to Inquire Into Reports Concerning Senatorial Candidates' Funds, but Fails to Do So.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 10.—Political manipulation, political frame-ups, political deals of the most questionable character, and evasion of inquiry into frequently repeated charges of the use of money by several candidates for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, and for Governor in Missouri, marked the caucus last night in the Morrison Hotel of the Missouri delegation to the Republican National Convention.

The caucus voted down a resolution to rescind its action of two weeks ago in re-electing Jacob L. Babler, National Committeeman from Missouri, and thereby re-affirmed Babler's election, notwithstanding his admissions before the Senate Investigating Committee in Washington that he had distributed approximately $17,000 of Lowden money in Missouri, and that the money was devoted in the main to Babler's campaign for re-election.

The action was taken according to a prearranged plan, to which no objection was offered by persons on the delegation known to be closely associated with the candidacies of Arthur M. Hyde for the nomination for Governor and Lieutenant-Colonel Dwight F. Davis for the nomination for Senator.

In fact, notwithstanding Hyde's public declarations in opposition to Babler, Roy H. Monier of Carrollton, an active worker, participated in the manipulations to prevent a questioning of candidates, and the proceedings of the caucus bore every indication of being a result of a deal to prevent any public inquiry into charges made openly in the hotel lobbies regarding candidates.

Growing out of the testimony of Babler and E. L. (Liv) Morse of Excelsior Springs, who gave the names of persons to whom the Lowden fund of $38,000 was distributed in Missouri, there has developed a condition in Missouri Republican politics which never has been equaled in its history.

Hyde, Davis and Minnis, also a candidate for the nomination for Senator, have demanded the removal of Babler and the unseating of the national chairman of Circuit Clerk Nat Goldstein and his deputy, Robert E. Moore, St. Louis delegates, who admitted receiving $2500 each of the Lowden fund.

These candidates, backed by many of their supporters, have demanded in formal public statements that a meeting of the delegation be called to rescind the action of the delegation.

Following their activity, which has been continued since the delegation arrived in Chicago early in the week, Babler's friends have circulated in the hotel lobbies reports which have been intended to involve the three candidates in political deals in which money figured.

These reports were of the mere rumor type, circulated in whispered conversations and without any person being willing to assume any responsibility for them until yesterday when John Schmoll, Director of Public Welfare in St. Louis, delegate from the Tenth Congressional District and chairman of the delegation, called the caucus for last night.

After the caucus was called, W. L. Cole, chairman of the State Committee; T. W. Hukriede of Warren, former chairman of the State Committee, and others, declared their intention of grilling Hyde, Davis and Minnis about their campaign expenditures.

List of Delegates Who Voted to Rescind Babler's Election

CHICAGO, June 10.

The following delegates voted at the Missouri caucus last night to rescind the election of Jacob L. Babler as national committeeman:

El W. Foristel, Monier of Carrollton, F. C. Sasse of Brunswick, C. U. Philley of St. Joseph, L. F. Cottrell of Savannah, S. P. Huston of Malta Bend, Wagner of Jefferson City, Roy T. Davis of Columbia, Judge H. Breuer of Hermann, Robert Mitter of Hillsboro, Judge Almon Ing of Poplar Bluff and John G. Harding of Gainesville.

port that Minnis had offered former Congressman Polite Elvins of Elvins, a candidate for the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, $10,000 to manage his campaign, which was denied by Minnis in the Post-Dispatch, Tuesday; that his second reference was to a report that Hyde had entered into negotiations with William Sacks of St. Louis and Tulsa, Ok., a wealthy oil producer, by which Sacks was to be made chairman of the State Committee, and by which Sacks was to contribute $8000 to Hyde's campaign fund; and that the third reference was to a report that Hyde had a campaign fund of $75,000.

There have been total or partial denials of all these reports by the persons they were intended to involve.

As the hour for the caucus approached last night, there filtered through the hotel lobby a report that everything had been "fixed" and that there would be no "sensations" at the caucus, and that those who had most loudly demanded the removal of Babler "had cold feet" and were not demanding an investigation of campaign funds.

The facts obtainable, bearing in mind the difficulty of separating the facts in the situation, heretofore unapproached in Missouri political intrigue, are best told by relating exactly what occurred at the caucus, and the proceedings constitute the only known facts in connection with the manipulations.

Schmoll called the caucus to order in room 4, A. Morrison Hotel, saying: "Last week a number of delegates and a number of candidates requested that a meeting of the delegation be called. I took the position that because of contests of the seats of several delegates it would be unfair to have a conference until all those questions were settled."

"Now, the roll of the National Credentials Committee report having been adopted, I deemed it my duty as chairman to call a conference. I invited the representatives of the news papers because there is nothing a Missourian should do except in the open. As far as I am concerned I want everybody to know what is doing."

Sam A. Chappell, Mayor of Moett, a delegate from the Fifteenth District, offered a motion that the delegation go into executive session, and that all newspaper men and spectators be barred. The motion was seconded by Thomas E. Frank of Joplin, also a delegate from the Fifteenth District.

Schmoll, Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, treasurer of the State Committee, and Fred Essen of St. Louis County opposed the motion, declaring their belief that the proceedings should be public. All are friendly to Babler. Schmoll and Essen are delegates from the Tenth District, and Dickey is a delegate at large.

Open Session Favored. When the roll was called it developed that there were practically no votes for an executive session, all except Franks voting for an open meeting. Dr. J. R. A. Crossland, a negro delegate at large from St. Joseph, being absent; Congressman Eyer, a delegate at large, and James Gill of Montgomery City, a delegate from the Ninth District, being represented by their alternates, Mrs. A. H. Brueggeman of St. Louis and Mrs. J. C. Spohrer of Warren, respectively.

Chappell, who had made the motion for an executive session, explained his vote against it, saying: "It may be that there is to be a nomination. Perhaps, but I thought it ought to be cleaned. I want to explain my vote. This is a Missouri delegation. We are here because the national convention is in session here. We want to do the right thing. I believe that the interest of the Republican party, State and nation, is better served by washing its linen privately. If the majority believe this affair should be aired, go to it."

No Public Discussion. He first disclosed the existence of a prearranged deal by which there should be no public discussion of the party's affairs, saying: "It appears that a majority here have changed their opinion since we agreed upon this matter." After the vote had been taken, Schmoll said he had invited all candidates for the nomination for United States Senator and Governor to attend the meeting to make any statements they desired to make, the call being due largely to their demand. George Wagner of Jefferson City, a delegate from the Eighth District, then offered a motion which set out that the delegates rescind their previous action in electing Babler national committeeman. Circuit Judge Almon Ing of Poplar Bluff, Fourteenth District, seconded the motion.

Elvins, carrying out the plan which had been agreed upon, then moved the previous question, the effect of which was to shut off all debate and prevent any discussion which would involve the charges. His motion was seconded by Roy H. Monier of Carrollton, Second District, an ardent supporter of Hyde. Not a voice was raised from any delegate in opposition to the carrying out of the agreement. Schmoll explained that the motion was not debatable.

Elvins in making motions in the caucus sat on the proxy of Carr Hartshorn of the Thirteenth District.

The votes in favor of the previous question, shutting off debate and inquiry, were: Edward W. Foristel, St. Louis; Mrs. Alice Currier Moyer Wing, Greenville; and Mrs. W. A. Swan of Joplin, delegates-at-large; Brown of Edina, First District; Monier of Carrollton, and F. C. Sasse, of Brunswick, second; L. DeHart, of St. Louis, and E. R. Lindley, of St. Louis, third; C. U. Philley of St. Joe, Fourth; Robert Flick, Kansas City, and Jesse Martin, Independence, Fifth; J. O. App, of Adrian, and W. H. Allen, of Clinton, Sixth; R. W. Hedrick, of Cole Camp, and S. P. Huston, of Malta Bend, Seventh; Wagner of Jefferson City, and Roy T. Davis, of Columbia, Eighth; Judge R. A. Breuer, of Hermann, and Mrs. F. C. Spohrer, of Warren, Ninth; Nat Goldstein and Mrs. E. E. Butler, of St. Louis, Eleventh; the Rev. S. A. Moseley, negro, and Robert E. Moore, of St. Louis, Twelfth; Carr Hartshorn, of Elvins, and Robert Miller, of Hillsboro, Thirteenth; Ing, of Poplar Bluff and John G. Harding of Gainesville, Fourteenth; Franks of Joplin, and Chappell of Moett, Fifteenth; and William P. Elmer, of Salem, and John N. Pryor, of Mansfield, Sixteenth.

Hyde then asked in opposition to the previous question were Senator Spencer, Mrs. A. Brueggemann of St. Louis; Cole, Dickey of Kansas City, delegates-at-large; C. L. Young of Kahoka, First; L. F. Cottrell of Savannah, Fourth; Schmoll and Essen of St. Louis, Tenth.

This vote developed that none of the ardent supporters on the delegation of either Hyde or Davis favored the action of the delegates in electing Babler. Discussion having been shut off by a vote of 23 1/2 to 6, the delegates-at-large having only one-half vote each, the question of the adoption of the resolution was put, and failed of passage, 11 1/2 votes being for its adoption and 23 1/2 against it. With Senator Spencer not voting and Dr. Crossland absent, each having half a vote.

Those voting to rescind Babler's election were Foristel, Monier, Sasse, Philley, Cottrell, Huston, Wagner, Davis, Bruer, Miller, Ing and Harding. The others, except Spencer and Crossland, voted against ousting Babler.

Spencer, explaining his refusal to vote, said: "I want merely to explain that I am not going to vote on this question. I happen to be a member of the subcommittee of the Senate Committee investigating this very question. Part of the testimony we have heard. Mr. Babler has been before the committee, but he has not finished his statement. Every judicial propriety makes it unwise and unfair for me to take a position here."

Brown explained his vote, "Since this agitation I have polled members of the Republican party from my district. There are 10 counties, eight of which have representative Republicans here. I have polled all of them and with one exception, they have instructed me to vote no on this resolution."

Reports Circulated Again. Elvins moved an adjournment and without even waiting for the motion to be put by the chairman, nearly all of the delegates started for the door. Monier did manage to get in his second to the motion, however.

The night's politics of the delegation was by no means over when the delegates departed. It continued in the hotel lobby. There the reports regarding candidates' expenditures which had been circulated prior to the meeting were restated for publication the questions he had said in the afternoon he intended to propound.

A half-hour after the meeting Hyde excitedly clutched a Post-Dispatch correspondent by the arm and pulled him across the crowded lobby, picking up a correspondent of the Kansas City Star on the way, to a group in which Hukriede was standing. Speaking to Hukriede, Hyde exclaimed loudly:

"Now, I want you to tell in the presence of these men whatever you have heard about me having received $1000 that wanting another $1000 in some deal with a man named Sacks. Somebody has been telling that story around here, and I want to nail it right now."

Hukriede expressed surprise at the question and the excitement, and inquired the reason for coming to him.

Five Women Vote in Caucus to Retain Babler, Then Brave Wrath of Others

By Marguerite Martyn.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 10.—Five women sat in the "momentous" caucus that voted to retain Mr. Babler as national committeeman from Missouri.

They were Mrs. Spohrer of Warren, Hukriede's district; Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson, voting Congressman Hyde's proxy; Mrs. Estlin E. Butler, daughter of Hank Wecke; Mrs. Venonna Swan and Mrs. Alice Currier Moyer-Wing. They all voted without exception with the majority that decided the question.

There can be no doubt that the first four women voted wholeheartedly and with conviction. Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Hutchinson were exultant, jubilant, echoing in feminine accents the horse laugh which burst from the women of my State until the men surrounding him as he emerged from the room.

How Mrs. Brueggeman would have voted the Byer proxy, which during his absence frequently has been assigned to her, is not known. Hutchinson is responsible for the assertion that the women's committeewoman "got cold feet" and stayed away.

Onslaught on Mrs. Wing. Of Mrs. Moyer-Wing, one cannot be sure that she rejoiced in the result. It is significant of her former tendencies that a group of women onlookers, including Mrs. Charles Passmore, Mrs. Emily Newell Blair of Joplin, Miss Marion Glenn of Carthage and Miss Alma Sasse of Warren, came into the room at the meeting and adjourned and unapologetically berated her for her action.

"How could you do such a thing? We were depending upon you as a woman to take a stand against the methods that have brought Missouri politics into disrepute before the whole country," they said to her. Mrs. Wing appeared to have anticipated the onslaught. Her face was livid, her mouth set, there was a suspicion of brightness in her eyes which presently melted them into tears that rolled down her cheeks.

She hurried past the group without a word except to say "I have a statement to give out to the press." She grasped her colleague on the delegation at large, Mrs. Swan, by the arm and together they hurried away to find a stenographer. Mrs. Swan meantime showed no agitation, merely preserving a discreet silence. Some time later they returned to the lobby with the following type-written on slips of paper, Mrs. Swan's statement:

"I understand the law provides that the delegates elected to a national convention shall meet and elect a national committeeman."

"I want to know about it." "Somebody has been telling this story around here," Hyde repeated, "and I want to know about it." There seemed to be some confusion in Hyde's remark that Hukriede had made the statement to the Post-Dispatch correspondent. Appealed to, the correspondent said he had heard the story but not from Hukriede.

"I want to say," Hyde continued, "that there isn't a dollar of anybody else's money in my pocket." Hyde then sought out Cole.

"I have just talked to Judge Hukriede about some rumors that have been going around here about me," he said. "He says he has not been circulating them, and now I want to ask you what you know about them."

That was what I had intended asking you at the meeting tonight. If I had had the opportunity," Cole replied, walking away.

About that time Minnis caught Hyde by the arm, saying, "You're mad now, Art. You're not to be quiet down. Let me fight these fellows. I'm a better fighter than you are."

Late last night Hyde was asked by the Post-Dispatch correspondent if he cared to make any statement regarding the reported Sacks deal in addition to his general denial that he had not received any money from any other persons. He said he did not.

John H. Holliday, chairman of the Davis for Senator Club in St. Louis, denied that Davis had a campaign fund of $75,000. When asked by a Post-Dispatch reporter, he said the Davis fund was well within the legal limit fixed by the statute. He declined to make public the amount of contributions or expenditures, saying the demand was simply a bluff and that Davis should be forced into disclosures of details which his opponents were not revealing in regard to their campaigns.

Candidates' Statements. E. E. McMinnsey, candidate for Governor, said: "I most certainly was not a party in any sense to any agreement to curtail the speech of that meeting. My cards all are on the table and I wanted to see the fullest discussion as to others."

Hyde said, "I was not a party to any agreement to limit the work of that meeting. I can only reaffirm what I have already said without personal animosity, and, thinking only of the welfare of the party in Missouri, Mr. Babler ought to resign."

Minnis said, "I did not agree to anything carried out in the caucus. I wanted and demanded fullest discussions. The action of the delegates in confirming Babler's election was a mistake because it makes Babler an issue in the primary election. The only way to eliminate that issue for the Republicans is in the primary decisively to indicate their disapproval of every person who may stand in favor of the caucus. I am for that."

Davis said: "I had nothing to do in anyway with an agreement as to that caucus. My attitude publicly stated is unchanged."

Spencer said: "Certainly I was not a party to any agreement to prevent free discussion in the caucus. I wanted the whole thing thrashed out publicly, and so voted."

For the Post-Dispatch by Marguerite Martyn.

CHICAGO, June 10.—As nothing extraordinary has happened thus far inside of the convention hall, let us take a look at its exterior.

When you reach the entrance the first thing that attracts your attention is the feminine forces picketing the Coliseum. You cannot enter the hall through any of its numerous doors without meeting a group of ladies carrying banners and large signs. With strategic insight which many generals might envy, they have occupied every strategic point of vantage, and the stronger sex cannot go in or come out without facing the siren priestesses. The groups of picketers vary in composition, in aspect in accordance with the demands which they represent. Numerous ladies, both old and young, some attired in the latest styles, hold aloft with both hands posters printed with large letters. They call the attention of the Republican delegates to the anomaly that while German war prisoners are all free, there are in America numerous men and women in jail for the political ideas.

The crowds read these posters hurriedly and pass by without comment on them. Not interested.

Other women, active, energetic, good natured, stop people in the street, smile at them meaningly and fill their pockets with printed manifestos signed by De Valera with newspapers, caricatures and what not. There are Irish enthusiasts, supporters of the republic of Ireland, that up to the present exists nowhere except in the United States.

The Irish republicans and their President hope that the Republican party of the United States will insert a clause in its platform favoring the recognition of Irish independence.

Tireless speakers hold forth interminably at street corners, reeling off the names of the women and sufferings of noble Erin and imploring the aid of the American people.

But the largest feminine group, the one that keeps the strongest cordon around the Coliseum is the time of picketers organized by the suffragists. This group has an unmistakable militant aspect. All the women are dressed in immaculate white, and they carry banners with the three colors of the party—lavender, white and yellow. Every banner bears some inscription, printed in large characters.

Standing elbow to elbow, with the flags held in front, the pickets give you the impression of a huge white wall. The women of this group have a large store of paper when you unfold its leaves.

"What happened to the Republican party in Delaware?" I read on one of the banners. "I don't know, I can guess."

Indictments Long, Pickets Tireless. "The Republicans can grant women the suffrage. Why don't they do it?" I read further down the line. "They are afraid of the women." The indictment is long. And the pickets are tireless. All day long the tri-color flags flutter in the air, bearing the message of the militant group.

And absolutely all the suffragists are garbed in white. They remind me of a group of girls in a Catholic school dressed up to take their first communion. The majority of them are unmarried ladies or young women, and therefore their dress gives them a youthful air, some might even call it a poetic touch. But among them there were also respectable matrons of severe aspect, well along in years and not very slender, and therefore their dress gives them a youthful air, some might even call it a poetic touch.

Mrs. Wing's Statement. Mrs. Wing's statement: "It seems to me that we should not at present rescind our action of the St. Louis meeting that elected Mr. Babler to the National Committee. Nothing new or different has developed since that meeting, at which I was not present, so far as I can see. I hope the women of my State will understand that I am weighing this matter seriously, and am earnestly hoping to be saved from making mistakes in these new political experiences. I earnestly believe that this disturbance was started from a sinister, unfair motive, and until I see that I am mistaken in that belief I am ready to stand by the election of Mr. Babler."

Mrs. Wing evidently had her massive prepared before hand except for the typing, as she was absent but a moment. In addition, she added: "It is my policy not to pronounce a man guilty until he has been lawfully convicted, and I understand Mr. Babler is still being investigated. Women, I hope you will believe in me. I cannot tell you all I know about this matter at the present time."

Remarks made by Miss Sasse were interesting in sequel to what happened to her at Kansas City. It will be recalled that at the State convention Miss Sasse was defeated as a candidate for delegate-at-large. Last night she said to me, "If I had been a delegate in this caucus I should most assuredly have voted against Mr. Babler. It is because they knew I could not be controlled as these delegates have been, that I was defeated."

Mrs. Swan evinced not the slightest emotion or sentimentality. She is consistently the well-poised, practical, self-assured business woman. Other women came into Missouri headquarters at the Morrison from attending a dinner given by Pennsylvania women to promote the candidacy of Gov. Sproul. Many of them gathered in excited indignation groups, and their wrath seemed to center itself upon poor Mrs. Wing.

For my own part, I could not muster either surprise or a fresh supply of indignation, for I have been at Republican conventions and have witnessed the performance of the steam roller before.

They call the attention of the Republican delegates to the anomaly that while German war prisoners are all free, there are in America numerous men and women in jail for the political ideas.

The crowds read these posters hurriedly and pass by without comment on them. Not interested.

Other women, active, energetic, good natured, stop people in the street, smile at them meaningly and fill their pockets with printed manifestos signed by De Valera with newspapers, caricatures and what not. There are Irish enthusiasts, supporters of the republic of Ireland, that up to the present exists nowhere except in the United States.

The Irish republicans and their President hope that the Republican party of the United States will insert a clause in its platform favoring the recognition of Irish independence.

Tireless speakers hold forth interminably at street corners, reeling off the names of the women and sufferings of noble Erin and imploring the aid of the American people.

But the largest feminine group, the one that keeps the strongest cordon around the Coliseum is the time of picketers organized by the suffragists. This group has an unmistakable militant aspect. All the women are dressed in immaculate white, and they carry banners with the three colors of the party—lavender, white and yellow. Every banner bears some inscription, printed in large characters.

Standing elbow to elbow, with the flags held in front, the pickets give you the impression of a huge white wall. The women of this group have a large store of paper when you unfold its leaves.

"What happened to the Republican party in Delaware?" I read on one of the banners. "I don't know, I can guess."

Indictments Long, Pickets Tireless. "The Republicans can grant women the suffrage. Why don't they do it?" I read further down the line. "They are afraid of the women." The indictment is long. And the pickets are tireless. All day long the tri-color flags flutter in the air, bearing the message of the militant group.

And absolutely all the suffragists are garbed in white. They remind me of a group of girls in a Catholic school dressed up to take their first communion. The majority of them are unmarried ladies or young women, and therefore their dress gives them a youthful air, some might even call it a poetic touch. But among them there were also respectable matrons of severe aspect, well along in years and not very slender, and therefore their dress gives them a youthful air, some might even call it a poetic touch.

Mrs. Wing's Statement. Mrs. Wing's statement: "It seems to me that we should not at present rescind our action of the St. Louis meeting that elected Mr. Babler to the National Committee. Nothing new or different has developed since that meeting, at which I was not present, so far as I can see. I hope the women of my State will understand that I am weighing this matter seriously, and am earnestly hoping to be saved from making mistakes in these new political experiences. I earnestly believe that this disturbance was started from a sinister, unfair motive, and until I see that I am mistaken in that belief I am ready to stand by the election of Mr. Babler."

Mrs. Wing evidently had her massive prepared before hand except for the typing, as she was absent but a moment. In addition, she added: "It is my policy not to pronounce a man guilty until he has been lawfully convicted, and I understand Mr. Babler is still being investigated. Women, I hope you will believe in me. I cannot tell you all I know about this matter at the present time."

Remarks made by Miss Sasse were interesting in sequel to what happened to her at Kansas City. It will be recalled that at the State convention Miss Sasse was defeated as a candidate for delegate-at-large. Last night she said to me, "If I had been a delegate in this caucus I should most assuredly have voted against Mr. Babler. It is because they knew I could not be controlled as these delegates have been, that I was defeated."

Mrs. Swan evinced not the slightest emotion or sentimentality. She is consistently the well-poised, practical, self-assured business woman. Other women came into Missouri headquarters at the Morrison from attending a dinner given by Pennsylvania women to promote the candidacy of Gov. Sproul. Many of them gathered in excited indignation groups, and their wrath seemed to center itself upon poor Mrs. Wing.

For my own part, I could not muster either surprise or a fresh supply of indignation, for I have been at Republican conventions and have witnessed the performance of the steam roller before.

PLAN OF IRELAND'S ASSOCIATE TO BUY DORRIS CO. FAILS

B. R. Parrott, Who Was With Concern From Which Grew BlueBird Firm, Organized Corporation.

B. R. Parrott, formerly associated with W. S. Ireland, in the National Tool and Manufacturing Co., predecessor to the BlueBird Manufacturing Co., now in the hands of receivers, has failed in his project to purchase a controlling interest in the Dorris Motor Car Co., of St. Louis, for which promotion, if it had been successful, he was to have received $460,000 of stock in the Dorris Motors Corporation of New Jersey which he organized as the purchasing agent of the National Tool and Manufacturing Co., when he conceived the idea of branching out into the automobile manufacturing business.

He organized the Astra Motors Corporation with authorized capital stock of $850,000 and this was followed last January by the incorporation of the Dorris Motors Corporation of New Jersey with a capitalization of $3,000,000. Though the Astra corporation never turned out any product, its stated purpose was to manufacture "light motor cars for export." The Astra and Dorris corporations were merged Jan. 20 last and it was announced that the merged companies would acquire a controlling interest in the Dorris Motor Car Co.'s plant, Sarah street and Laclede avenue, and turn out large quantities of Dorris and Astra cars.

Resigned by Request.

Parrott set the wheels in motion for the project, but resigned as president of the Dorris Motors Corporation last February at the suggestion of some of the stockholders, and at that time he turned over the $460,000 worth of stock which had been held in the treasury for him as his fee for successful promotion of a $3,000,000 deal.

Stock in the Dorris Motors Corporation was sold to the general public, most of the purchasers being St. Louisans. A. J. Kessinger, secretary of the company, today said $226,000 in cash was taken in from the stock sales and that $195,000 had been paid on the purchase of Dorris Motor Car Co. stock. Of this amount $181,000 had been paid on common stock and there had been an outright purchase of $14,000 of preferred stock from H. B. Krenning, former president of the Dorris Motor Car Co.

To Pay $50 a Share.

Kessinger said Parrott and he received no salary and took no profits from the deal and that the margin between the $226,000 taken in and the $195,000 paid for stock was used to pay promotion and stock-selling expenses.

Under the contract made with the Dorris Motor Car Co., the Dorris Motors Corporation was to pay $50 a share for 6429 of the 7200 shares of common stock of the Dorris Motor Car Co. It was also understood, he said, that a similar contract was to be made later for the purchase of a majority of the company's 1000 shares of preferred stock.

Since Parrott's resignation Marion C. Early, an attorney, has been president of the Dorris Motors Corporation.

Kessinger today said plans were under way to terminate the deal and that an effort would be made to induce the Dorris Motor Car Co. to refund the money paid it by the Dorris Motors Corporation or deliver the $195,000 worth of stock already paid for, so as to protect the stockholders of the Dorris Motors Corporation.

New Hair Growth After BALDNESS

HAIR GROWN ON MR. BRITAIN'S BALD HEAD BY INDIANS' MYSTERIOUS HAIR GROWER

My head at the top and back was absolutely bald. The scalp was shiny. An expert said that as he thought the hair roots were extinct, and there was no hope of my ever having a new hair growth. Yet now, at an age over 60, I have a luxuriant growth of soft, strong, lustrous hair! No trace of baldness. The pictures shown here are from my photographs.

Indians' Secret of Hair Growth

At a time when I had become discouraged as trying various hair lotions, tonics, specialists' treatments, etc., I came across, in my travels, a Cherokee Indian "medicine man" who had an elixir that he asserted would grow my hair. Although I had but little faith, I gave it a trial. From recent photo. To my amazement a light fuzz soon appeared. It developed, day by day, into a healthy growth, and ere long my hair was as prolific as in my youthful days.

That I was astonished and happy is expressing my state of mind mildly. Obviously, the hair roots had not been dead, but were dormant in the scalp, awaiting the fertilizing potency of the mysterious pomade. I negotiated for and came into possession of the principle for preparing this mysterious elixir, now called Kotaliko, and later had the recipe put into practical form by a chemist.

That my own hair growth was permanent has been amply proved. Many men and women, also children, have reported satisfactory results from Kotaliko.

How YOU May Grow YOUR Hair

My honest belief is that hair roots rarely die even when the hair falls out through dandruff, fever, excessive dryness or other disorders. I have been told by experts that often when hair falls out the roots become imbedded within the scalp, covered by hard skin, so that they remain for a time like bulbs or seeds in a bottle which will grow when fertilized. Shampoos (which contain alkalis) and hair lotions which contain alcohol are enemies to the hair, as they dry it, making it brittle. Kotaliko contains those elements of nature which give new vitality to the scalp and hair.

PROVE FOR YOURSELF

Get a box of the genuine Kotaliko at a reliable druggist's $500.00 GUARANTEE with each box. A small testing box of Kotaliko (with testimonials) may be obtained by sending its cents, silver or stamps, to my address below.

Cent in 10 Years.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Los Angeles has outstripped San Francisco, and become the largest city west of St. Louis in the last 10 years. It also has outgrown Buffalo, tenth largest city in the country in 1910, as well as Milwaukee, Washington, Newark, Cincinnati and New Orleans.

Los Angeles now has a population of 575,480, an increase of 256,282, while San Francisco has 508,410 inhabitants. Los Angeles' rate of growth was 80.3 per cent compared with San Francisco's rate of 21.9 per cent during the 10 years, the Census Bureau's announcement last night said.

Los Angeles may take rank about the ninth largest city of the country as a result of the 1920 census, coming just below Pittsburgh, the present population of which is 588,123. Detroit, ninth city in 1910, with 469,766, and whose 1920 population has not been announced, will have to show an increase of more than 110,000 to pass Los Angeles' mark and maintain her position. The Michigan metropolis will have to show a growth of almost 44,000 to pass San Francisco, and more than 40,000 to pass Buffalo. Two Detroit suburbs, Hamtramck and Highland Park, have shown the largest rates of increase of any incorporated places in the country thus far announced and indications are that Detroit will maintain ninth rank. That would place Los Angeles in tenth place and San Francisco in eleventh. Announcement of the populations of San Francisco and Los Angeles left only five of the 20 largest cities of the United States to be heard from in the 1920 census. These are Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Detroit and Kansas City, Mo.

San Francisco ranked as eleventh city in 1910 with 416,212 inhabitants, an increase of 74,130, or 21.6 per cent during the decade. Los Angeles ranked as seventeenth in 1910 with 319,198, an increase of 216,719, or 211.8 per cent in the 10 years.

Other figures announced are: Pasadena, Cal., 45,334, increase 15,042, or 49.7 per cent. Fresno, Cal., 44,616, increase 19,724, or 49.2 per cent. Stockton, Cal., 40,296, increase 17,043, or 72.3 per cent. Pittston, Pa., 18,494, increase 2230, or 13.7 per cent. Pensacola, Fla., 31,035, increase 8053, or 26 per cent.

Everett, Mass., 40,109, increase 6625, or 19.8 per cent. Statistics announced today include: Passaic County, N. J., containing Paterson, 259,148, increase 43,246, or 20.9 per cent. Passaic, N. J., 63,824, increase 9051, or 16.5 per cent. Monessen, Pa., 18,179, increase 8404, or 46.4 per cent. Dothan, Ala., 10,034, increase 3015, or 30.0 per cent.

SWISS ACTION PLEASES WILSON

Expresses Gratification at Decision to Join League of Nations.

By the Associated Press. GENEVA, June 9.—President Wilson, in a telegram received here by Prof. Van Rappard, secretary-general of the League of Red Cross Societies, expressed his gratification over the fact that Switzerland, by the vote of her people, had decided to join the League of Nations.

"The President has learned with satisfaction the result of the popular vote in Switzerland," read the message. "He predicts for Switzerland land as a member of the society of nations a useful future, in the course of which the democratic confederation can fulfill an important role by contributing to the maintenance of peace and good understanding among all nations."

REBURIED SON'S BODY; FINED

PARIS, June 9.—A French mother who had the body of her son removed by night from the battlefield where he fell and was buried has been fined 200 francs.

For reasons of their own, mainly to prevent abuses, the French authorities have opposed the exhumation of soldiers' bodies, except in cases where identity was indisputable and there were special reasons for according to the privilege. This has led to a certain amount of clandestine exhumation, in those removing the bodies not being always particular to open the right graves in their hurried night work. The identification in this latest case, however, was authentic enough.

The mother, Mme. Menut, spent many months trying to persuade the authorities to grant her wish that her son's body be disinterred from the cemetery near Rheims where he was buried and taken to his home at Brest. When her appeals were disregarded, she hired an automobile and a gravedigger, and one night last January exhumed his body and brought it home to be reburied. In the interest of others the local authorities brought an action against her.

The Private Secretary

"I know that when I recommend Rubicam to a prospective pupil, I am doing the pupil a far greater favor than I am the school. Even if a pupil does not make use of his stenographic knowledge after he leaves school, the business training which he has received there can never fail to be of great benefit to him."

"Concerning a secretary's work, I wish to say that there is absolutely nothing as interesting as secretarial work. The variety and the number of important details that fall to the lot of a secretary make his work a pleasure, and fill him with that satisfying feeling that he is really accomplishing something by holding a responsible position."

"Wishing every Rubicamite the greatest possible success, I am your friend."

BLEWETT SCHOOL PRINCIPAL RESIGNS FOR $10,000 JOB

Philip W. L. Cox to Take Position as Principal of Washington School for Girls in New York.

THIRD HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL TO QUIT

Got Salary of $4200 Here—Will Depart July 1 to Take Summer Course at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Philip W. L. Cox of 5158 Raymond avenue, who has been principal of the Ben Blewett Junior High School, 5351 Enright avenue, since it was founded two years ago, informed the other members of the faculty and the pupils at graduation exercises today that he had resigned. His formal resignation was sent to Supt. Withers yesterday.

Teachers, who have been calling attention to the inadequacy of salaries paid to members of their profession in St. Louis, point out that the resignation of Principal Cox follows that of other high-ranking instructors who have left St. Louis or entered other work to better their financial condition. Cox has accepted a position as principal of the Washington School for Girls in New York City at $10,000 a year. He received $4200 a year as head of the Junior High School.

Although only 26 years old, Cox has been an educator for more than 10 years. He came to St. Louis four years ago after having served as Superintendent of Instruction in Solway, N. Y., and in the public school district of Southfield, Massachusetts. For two years he taught geography and history at the Harris Teachers' College.

Last year, while on a leave of absence, he had charge of the Government's program of vocational training for returned soldiers in District 5, comprising North and South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Tennessee. He and his family will leave St. Louis July 1, and before going to New York he will take a summer course at a teachers' college in Flagstaff, Ariz. For several years he had taken summer courses at the teachers' college of Columbia University, and his new duties will permit him to continue his studies there in summer months.

Prof. Cox is the third high school principal to resign in the course of the present school term. The others were Principal Curtis of Central High School and Hoch of Cleveland High School. Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Knox also resigned to accept a better paying position in Chicago.

TWO SCHOOL GIRLS ARRESTED WHILE RIDING IN STOLEN AUTO

Two Youths in Car With Them Also Taken After Chase on Plymouth Avenue.

Elizabeth Meyer, 16 years old, 6135A Ridge avenue, a pupil at the Pierre Leclerc School, and Gertrude Roehrer, 15, of 5734 North Market street, a pupil at Central High School, were taken to the Page Boulevard Police Station at 5 p. m. yesterday and held there until 8:30 o'clock last night, as a result of a "joy ride" they had yesterday in a stolen automobile.

William Loefer, 19 years old, of 5816 North Market street, and George Biederman, 18, of 6132 Ridge avenue, the girls' companions in the automobile, also were arrested and were ordered held on a charge of driving an automobile without the owner's consent.

The automobile was the property of Eugene Bell, 4740 Newport avenue, and was stolen from Twelfth street and Washington avenue, some time after 7:30 a. m. yesterday. Bell, in reporting the theft, gave the police the license number, 257-323.

At 5 p. m., a policeman at Hodiamont and Plymouth avenues saw the car occupied by the two boys and two girls going west. He called upon Loefer, who was driving, to halt, but the latter increased the speed. The policeman followed in another automobile and overtook the stolen car at Sutter avenue.

The girls said they did not know the car was stolen. They said the boys called for them at their homes at 9 a. m., and asked them to go riding. Loefer told the girls the machine belonged to his uncle.

$9000 CAPITOL CONTRACT LET

The commission having direction of the interior decoration of the State capitol, yesterday awarded the contract for painting the ceiling and arches of the Soldiers and Sailors' Museum in the capitol to Carlo Gino Venanzi of Kansas City for $9000.

The work will be a conventional design tying together the eight murals, having military and naval subjects, the contracts for which have been previously announced.

Aviator Killed at Atlantic City.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10.—Thousands of persons on the boardwalk yesterday saw Hugh Gordon Campbell, aviator, fall 500 feet to his death in the ocean. His body was not recovered.

COUNTY GAS COMPANY HELD RESPONSIBLE FOR FIRE LOSS

A verdict for $2350 was returned by a jury in Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton yesterday against the St. Louis County Gas Co. in favor of George Rede, a contractor, who alleged that the destruction of his home at 1329 Michael avenue, Webster, March 31, 1919, was due to a defective gas pipe. He asked for $3200 damages on the house and $750 on the furniture. It was shown that he had been paid $1500 by an insurance company, so the jury allowed his full claim after deducting the insurance payment. Mrs. Rede testified that a workman of the company, who was called to the house two days before the fire, had plugged a leak in a gas pipe with soap, saying he would return in two days to make the repair permanent. Before his return an explosion, followed by fire, occurred.

TWO WOMEN COMPLAIN AGAINST DOG CATCHERS

One Alleged Offender Arrested and Held for Trial—Two Others Are Released.

Two women complained about the conduct of dogcatchers yesterday. In one case a dogcatcher was arrested and will be tried for peace disturbance. In the other two dogcatchers who were arrested for investigation were released when the complainant declined to prosecute after her dog was restored to her from the city pound. The man who will stand trial was one of those arrested in the other case.

Mrs. Alice Van Stratten, 32 years old, of 329A Antelope avenue, reported that her front door was opened at 1 p. m., and her pet dog, followed by a dog catcher and her two children, ran into the house. The children called to her to save the dog, she said, and she picked it up and held it in her arms.

The dog catcher, according to Mrs. Van Stratten, threw a wire noose about the dog's head and in doing so caught her arm in the noose. He pulled the wire so tightly, she said, that her arm was bruised. He then attempted to drag her down a flight of steps leading from the second floor, she said, but she saved herself by holding to the railing. After taking the dog from her, she said, the dog catcher threw it into a wagon in which several other dogs were caged.

Accompanied by Mrs. Van Stratten's children, a policeman went to the dog pound and arrested William Schultz, 43 years old, of 1181 South Seventh street, who was identified by the children.

Mrs. Edith Sanders, 1305 Hickory street, complained that when she was on the sidewalk in front of her home at 11:30 a. m., holding her dog in her arms, a dog catcher jumped from a wagon and snatched the dog from her. When she tried to prevent him, she said, he grabbed her wrists and dragged her into the wagon. The driver of the wagon, according to Mrs. Sanders, called to the dog catcher to "beat hell out of her." She said that her dog had a license.

Police arrested Schultz and Thomas Smith, of 824 Chouteau avenue, another dog catcher, today for the assault on Mrs. Sanders. She declined to prosecute when the City Marshal agreed to restore her dog. Schultz told the police that Mrs. Sanders tore his shirt and undershirt in the conflict.

PRISONER GETS FIVE YEARS AFTER PRESENTING AN ALIBI

Abraham Schneider, 26 years old, 1424 North Garrison avenue, who formerly sold newspapers at Grand avenue and Olive street, was sentenced yesterday to five years in the penitentiary by a jury in Circuit Judge Taylor's Court on a charge of first degree robbery, although he offered an alibi with a policeman to support it.

Schneider was identified as one of three men who held up Joseph J. Grote, a grocer at 3900 Wyoming street, at 10 a. m., March 10, and stole $200 from Grote's cash drawer. He entered an absolute denial, said he was a victim of mistaken identity, and declared that at the time of the robbery he was at Sixth and Pine streets conversing with Policeman Meyer Shank of the Laclede Avenue District.

Policeman Shank, summoned by the defense, said that Schneider's alibi was genuine. He said he recalled the incident clearly because on the morning following the robbery he had read in the midday edition of the Post-Dispatch an account of the arrest of Schneider as a suspect. He said that he realized then that a mistake had been made, because he remembered having conversed with Schneider at the time of the robbery.

Copies of every edition of the Post-Dispatch of March 11 were introduced as evidence. Shank was asked to look for the news item he had referred to. When he failed to find it in any of the editions or in any part of that day's editions of other newspapers he said he must have been mistaken.

DIVORCE SUIT FILED

BY P. J. BRADSHAW

Architect Charges Wife, Now in New York, With Extravagance and Abandonment.

Suit for divorce was filed today by Preston J. Bradshaw, an architect of 5947 Clemens avenue, against Mrs. Hazel Bradshaw, who has been visiting in New York since Jan. 15. They were married Aug. 24, 1912.

In his petition Bradshaw alleges that his wife had extravagant tastes and habits, and that, although he provided her with a home in what he considered suitable surroundings, she expressed dissatisfaction with the arrangement and continually urged him to leave her and move to New York.

Mrs. Bradshaw spent several months in New York last year, according to the petition, and when she returned in September informed her husband that she intended to go back to New York. When she announced in January that she was going to depart, the petition sets forth, Bradshaw warned her that he would regard her leaving as an abandonment of him and would institute proceedings for divorce.

Mrs. Bradshaw entered her appearance through counsel. The case has been assigned to Judge Davis' court.

LETTER INDICATES COUGHLIN KIDNAPPERS ARE IN GEORGIA

Second Note From Same Source in Savannah Says Child Is Well

By the Associated Press
NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 10.—Hope of getting into communication with the kidnapers of 13-month-old Blakely Coughlin revived today with the arrival of a second letter from Savannah, Ga. It was received by George S. Coughlin at his home outside of Norristown in the first mail. The letter is dated June 7. "The writing is identical with that of a letter received from Savannah four days ago.

No attempt is made to disguise the handwriting in either letter, but the spelling and punctuation indicate the writer has deliberately feigned ignorance.

As in the first letter no attempt is made to establish the identity of the child. The writer merely says he has Blakely and the baby is well. The letter concludes:

"You will never get your child until I have gotten the money and saved myself."

TEACHERS REPORTED TO FAVOR LEAVING UNION

High School Teachers Vote This Afternoon on Question of Withdrawal.

The 270 members of the St. Louis
High School Teachers' Association, who, through their membership in the American Federation of Teachers, are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and, accordingly, are subject to immediate dismissal from the Department of Instruction, will vote this afternoon on the question of withdrawing from the union.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon at Central Y. M. C. A. following the action of the Board of Education Tuesday night in adopting a resolution barring union teachers from employment in the public schools, representatives of the High School Teachers' Association decided to submit the question of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor to the entire membership of their association at faculty meetings in the five high schools today.

It was said after the meeting, which was held behind closed doors, that a majority of those who attended seemed to be in favor of withdrawing from the American Federation of Teachers in view of the determined stand taken by the Board of Education.

WOMAN, 65, HIT BY A MOTOR BUS ON MAY 1, DIES

Mrs. Verne Allyn, Struck at Twelfth and Pine After Leaving Street Car, Succumbs at Sanitarium.

FATALITY IS 46TH
SINCE FIRST OF YEAR

Six Persons Injured in Auto
Accidents—Young Men in Car Which Strikes Engineer Speed Away.

Mrs. Verne Allyn, 65 years old, 4200 Arsenal street, died at 4 p. m. yesterday at the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium from injuries suffered May 1, when she was hit by a double-deck motor bus at Twelfth and Pine streets. Six persons were injured in automobile accidents yesterday afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Allyn, who was the wife of Dr. Asa B. Allyn, had alighted from a Tower Grove street car and was crossing Pine street when the motor bus, turning north into Twelfth street from Pine street, knocked her down. Her body was caught beneath the front platform of the bus. She was injured about the head and her right arm was fractured.

She was taken to the city hospital, and the chauffeur in charge of the bus, Charles Haverkamp, 48 years old, 1937 Sullivan avenue, was arrested. He gave bond. Later Mrs. Allyn was taken to the sanitarium. Mrs. Allyn's death was the forty-sixth automobile fatality since Jan. 1.

Aged Man Is Struck.
William Hoppaugh, 84 years old, residing at the Memorial Home, 2609 South Grand avenue, was hit by an automobile driven by J. Harry Rehme, 3511 Kingsland court, cashier of the Gravois Bank, St. Louis County, in front of the Memorial Home at 8 o'clock last night. He suffered a fractured skull. Rehme said that Hoppaugh had stepped from behind a parked automobile and directly into the path of his car.

San Presti, 6, of 1326 North Thirteenth street, in crossing the street in front of his home at 5 p. m., was struck by an automobile driven by Robert H. Gross, 5624 Bartmer avenue. He was internally hurt.

Frank Burdock, 10, of 1223 North Tenth street, suffered a serious injury when knocked down by an automobile driven by Joseph Oberman, 9224 North Twenty-second street, a butcher, on O'Fallon street, between Ninth and Tenth streets, at 5 p. m.

Engineer's Leg Broken.
Christian J. Zettinger, 55, of 40 Benton place, a hydraulic engineer, after alighting from a Manchester car at Armstrong and Chouteau avenues at 6:30 p. m., was knocked down by an automobile, eastbound in Chouteau avenue, which was occupied by two young men. Zettinger's right leg was fractured and he was internally hurt. Witnesses said the automobile did not stop.

One of the occupants looked over the side of the car and, observing Zettinger lying in the street, urged his companion to increase the speed of the car. Hyman Horowitz, 2142 Chouteau avenue, a grocer, told the police that he attempted to pursue the automobile in a motor truck, but was unable to catch up with the other machine.

KOCH HOSPITAL COMPARED FAVORABLY TO MT. VERNON

Hospital Commissioner Shutt returned today from a visit to the State Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Mount Vernon. He said, in comparing the institution with Koch Hospital, the city's institution for tuberculosis cases, south of Jefferson Barracks, that Koch Hospital seemed to him superior in some respects.

"The buildings at Mount Vernon are of permanent construction," he said, "and are not of the type best suited to tuberculosis cases, as to facilities for ventilation. At Koch Hospital, the cheaper and more temporary construction is better adapted to the purpose."

"Incipient cases have just as good a prospect of improvement at Koch as at Mount Vernon. At both places some improve and some fail to do so. The grounds at Mount Vernon are more attractive than the Koch grounds now are."

TRUCK LOAD OF WHISKY VALUED AT $25,000 STOLEN

By The Associated Press.
NEWARK, N. J., June 10.—A truck load of whisky, valued at $25,000, was stolen here last night by four men posing as revenue agents, who stopped the automobile, forced the driver to alight and drove away. Sole—Finest Leather
Black $10.00

All shoes in our Stores were made from leathers and materials purchased long before the high peak was reached in leather prices.

MANY years ago I decided that the best way to protect my customers against excessive profits was to stamp a fair and square retail price on the soles of my store shoes, based on the actual factory cost of labor and materials.

By enlarging my production from year to year I have been able to keep this selling price remarkably low in spite of the greatly increased cost of all materials and labor.

I have always felt that it was better policy to make many shoes at a low profit than a few shoes at a larger profit.

Emerson Shoes are not marked up at one season of the year just to hold so-called "Marked Down Sales" at another season. I never ask you to pay more for a shoe than it is actually worth.

The fact that I have increased my sales TEN TIMES in the past six years is proof positive that the general public appreciates this policy.

Come into our store and put this to the test. Inspect our styles and prices—and if you aren't convinced that you are getting more for your money in Emerson Shoes than in any others, I will not expect or want you to buy.

MAY EARNINGS OF BARGE LINE EXCEEDED $85,000

Receipts Only $5000 Less Than Operating Expenses, With Proper Credits for All Fixed Charges.

PROOF OF LOWER THAN RAIL COSTS

Freight Being Offered Is All Line Can Handle, but Capacity Will Be Trebled by Jan. 1.

The Mississippi section of the Mississippi-Warrior Waterways, which is the barge line between St. Louis and New Orleans, during the month of May had an income from freight charges of between $85,000 and $90,000, which was only about $5000 less than the sum needed to pay all operating expenses, and to make a proper credit to depreciation and insurance reserves and an allocation of the section's proportion of other fixed charges.

These are figures given to the Post-Dispatch by Brigadier-General Frank T. Hines, chief of transportation of the United States Army, who is directing the operation of Government enterprises upon inland waterways. The barge line is a Government experiment to learn if freight can be carried on inland rivers at a lower rate than charged by rail lines, with a profit to the water carrier.

Those who have most closely watched the experiment since its beginning in September, 1918, declare that the May record of the barge line is the beginning of proof of their reiterated assertions that freight can move over inland rivers at a lower rate than charged by rail lines, and at a profit to the water carrier. The conclusion of that proof is expected to give to private capital assurance to invest in barge fleets which will restore the Mississippi River and its tributaries to their former importance as a major arm of the transportation system of the United States.

Two Factors Delay Profits. Two factors have militated against a quicker balancing of receipts with operating costs, which is the forerunner of a profit.

1. The neglect of shippers in St. Louis and other cities on and off the river to which the benefit of a water rate 20 per cent under the rail rate has been offered to send freight to the river in sufficient quantity to give to the experiment the advantage of operation at maximum capacity.

2. The lack within the operation itself of towboats sufficiently staunch and powerful to handle maximum tows at a minimum cost. The first handicap now is removed. The freight being sent to the river now is more than 100 per cent of the capacity of the line to carry. The capacity of the line to carry will be trebled before next Jan. 1, yet it is the opinion of those within the operation that the service has acquired a patronage which will furnish 100 per cent of that trebled capacity. It appears that the problem of the service now is not of obtaining enough freight, but of handling the freight that is being offered.

22,927 tons in May. The tonnage loaded by the line during May, according to Gen. Hines' figures, was 22,927 tons. The May movement was largely of bulk grain by a few shippers. The previous record month for the service was March, 1919, when 14,547 tons were moved. In March, 1919, movement was largely of bulk grain by a few shippers. The May, 1920, movement was largely of merchandise from hundreds of different shippers. In fact, only 3691 tons of the May movement was grain or grain products. The increase in merchandise is gratifying, because it not only is more remunerative to the service, but indicates a wider, more diversified use of the service in passing. It may be remarked that St. Louis furnished most of the merchandise.

Freight is more commonly measured in the public mind in freight car loads. The May movement of 22,927 tons would have required 1146 freight cars. The value of the service to shippers, outside of freight charge saved, may be measured by the fact that one of the greatest troubles of manufacturers and jobbers at this time is obtaining cars in which to load their products. The average freight train comprises about 30 loaded cars. Thus the river movement was the equivalent of the dispatch of 38 freight trains or an average of more than one a day between St. Louis and New Orleans. It is interesting to note that the barges made 12,000 trips to New Orleans than rail trains now do. The movement was accomplished in five tows. Thus each tow was the equivalent of 229 freight cars or seven train loads. The largest of the tows was that of May 4, when the Choctaw departed from St. Louis with two 500-ton barges, one 600-ton barge and two 2000-ton barges. The revenue of that trip to the line was approximately $24,700.

Shipments to New England. A striking example of this is cited. St. Louis shippers sent great quantities of merchandise into New England during May by the river to New Orleans, thence by ocean to destination. This was in spite of the fact that the barge line has not yet been able to establish joint rates with water carriers and the combination water rate to New England is at present higher than the rail rate. However, experience of shippers has been that the great congestion in eastern terminals makes delivery by water quicker and more certain.

Many Inquiries Made. It is further pointed out that the river service recently has made application for rail-river-rail and river-rail rates to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which will greatly increase the territory upon which the service can draw for freight. These rates alone, if granted, would insure the necessary tonnage and the demand for the rates has become so insistent that there is belief that the commission will grant them.

There are other more definite grounds of belief that tonnage no longer will be a worry of the river operators. The existence of the service, long unknown at great distances from the river itself, is coming to the knowledge of shippers throughout the entire Mississippi Valley. More than 1000 inquiries from states north of St. Louis concerning the service offered recently have come to the local offices. Large steel manufacturers of Chicago have entered negotiations to send their export steel products through the St. Louis water gateway. Two chemical companies having plants at Terre Haute, Ind., and East St. Louis have indicated their desire to send 3000 tons per month of sulfur and other products via the barge line.

Trucks as Auxiliaries. Automobile manufacturers, after sending 334 cars by river during May, most of them for export to United Kingdom ports and South America, now are inquiring if it is not possible to deliver all their cars sold in Southern States by barge line to Southern river ports, from which they would proceed under their own power to destination. Some of the manufacturers of trucks see the opportunity to furnish store door truck delivery to points as far as 50 miles off the river, of goods—delivered by the river carriers. The widening of the function of the river, other than being discussed by the shippers themselves, The American Sugar Products Co. is inquiring whether it could not ship great quantities of bulk molasses to St. Louis for redistribution here.

James E. Smith, president of the Mississippi Valley Waterways Association, in commenting upon the May record of the service, stated his belief that the question no longer is whether the experiment will prove the right of river lines to exist, but how vast the revival of river transportation will be.

SECURITY BENEFIT SESSION TO CLOSE WITH INITIATION OF 500

The eleventh session of the national council, Security Benefit Association, which opened Tuesday at Christ Church Cathedral, will close tonight. A class of 500 will be initiated at Fraternity Hall, Grand avenue and West Pine boulevard. The ritual will be followed by a dance.

Yesterday afternoon 600 delegates, including 170 men and women in 10 uniformed drill teams, paraded downtown. They assembled in front of Hotel Jefferson, marched south on Twelfth street past the City Hall, where waited a motion picture photographer engaged by the association, to Clark avenue, west to Fourteenth street, north to Olive street, and east to the Public Library, where they lined up on the steps for more pictures. Most of them then "fell out," while the Wichita and Oklahoma City teams gave an exhibition drill. The band started to march through the lower downtown district, but, returning on Washington avenue, decided it was too hot to walk any farther and boarded a street car at Ninth street.

INSTEAD of buying shoes already made, we planned these Oxfords a long time ahead.

We selected a superior grade of genuine tan calfskin. We specified the inner soles and linings.

We had them designed and built the Hutcheson way, on a correct English last. And we ordered immense quantities.

That's why these Hutcheson $9.50 Oxfords are so thoroughly good and so inexpensive.

SHANNON SAYS REED WILL DEMAND SEAT

Asserts Senator Will Claim Right to Represent Fifth District at Convention.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, leader of one faction of the Democratic party in Jackson County, gave an interview here today in which he said Senator James A. Reed would go to San Francisco and assert his right to sit in the Democratic national convention as a delegate from the Fifth District, though the State convention rejected him as a delegate.

Shannon says Reed's contest will be based, in part, on the home rule principle for which the Democratic party is supposed to stand, and that the Senator expects to be seated.

Reed's election as a district delegate, it will be remembered, was repudiated by the State convention at Joplin in an all-night session, one of the most hard-fought and dramatic in the history of the party. Shannon led the fight of the Kansas City and St. Louis organizations delegates for Reed. After his repudiation the Fifth District elected to leave the seat vacant, refusing to carry out the State convention chairman's instructions to present a substitute selection.

Shannon made the point for Reed, in discussing the contest plan, that there was no contest in the district, which was almost solidly for Reed. Shannon said that he had talked to Reed about the matter while in Washington last week.

Shannon expects to depart for Kansas City tonight. He is the other delegate from the Fifth District to the National Convention and expects to attend the convention.

Senator Reed arrived in St. Louis from Washington yesterday. At the Jefferson Hotel today he refused to discuss the Shannon interview or to say whether he would try to sit as a delegate in the Democratic convention. He said he would go to San Francisco and expected to be at the convention.

WORLD ADVERTISING CLUBS TO END CONVENTION TODAY

President and Secretary-Manager Will Be Chosen at Final Session This Afternoon.

By the Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 10.—A business session this afternoon, following an inter-departmental meeting this morning will close the sixteenth annual convention of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

With the selection of Atlanta, Ga., as the 1921 convention city already announced and merely awaiting ratification by the convention, the most important business to come before the delegates this afternoon was the selection of a president and secretary-manager, both of whom will be nominated from the floor of the convention. Among the delegates it was said this morning that there was hardly any doubt but that Parker S. Florea will be re-elected secretary-manager without opposition.

It was rumored that there would be no nominations for the presidency until after the incumbent, Reuben H. Donnelly of Chicago had finally decided not to accept another term. Others who have been or are being considered for the presidency include: William H. Jones, New York; Arthur G. Newmyer, New Orleans; Merle Siderer, Indianapolis; George W. Hopkins, New York; and Tim Thrift, Cleveland.

$350 IN GEMS MISSED AFTER VISIT OF PROSPECTIVE RENTER

During the absence yesterday of Mrs. Fanette Dudley from her home at 5817 1/2 Waterman avenue, a man, driving an automobile and representing himself to be a prospective renter of a furnished apartment, called and said that he had been sent by a real estate company, which he named. He was shown through the apartment by Mrs. Dudley's daughter, Fanette, who noticed that he made a minute examination.

After his departure the daughter discovered that her two diamond rings valued at $350 were missing from a receptacle on a dresser in her room. The real estate company said that they had sent a man to look at the apartment, but had lost his address.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief for Acid Indigestion

No-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food are in probability nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach. Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. To stop or prevent this and to neutralize the acid and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of Bisulphate of Magnesia is a good and effective corrector and should be taken in a quart of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use. An antacid, such as Bisulphate of Magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial stimulants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisulphate of Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.

Compensation—and Thrift

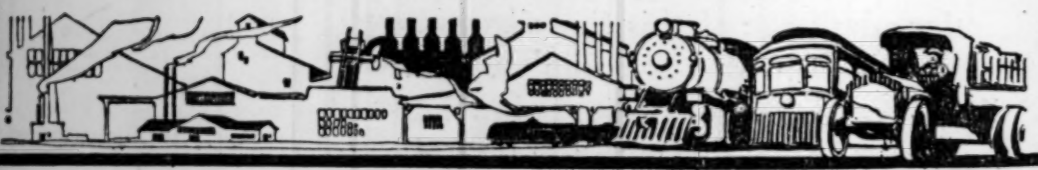

FROM mill, mine, factory and farm of the Mississippi Valley flows an ever-increasing stream of commodities, both raw and finished.

Production continues its eternal race with demand. St. Louis, the approximate center of population, production and economic distribution in the valley, with her finger on the pulse of the community, the ryer, is quick to feel the swing of the pendulum to prosperity.

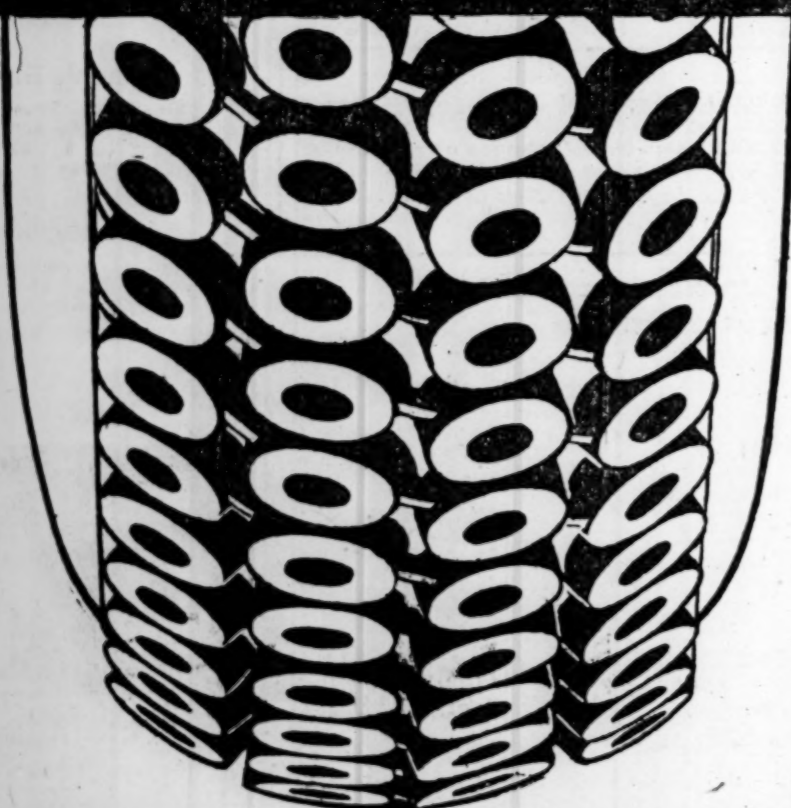

Labor, with increased compensation, is increasing production. Increased compensation opens the field to the greatest of business stabilizers—thrift. Greater compensation, overtime, the bonus, etc., are meaningless to the man who does not practice thrift.

The Mercantile Trust Company is encouraging, through its Savings Department, over 46,000 thrifters. It offers a safe, convenient place to store the earnings of labor, and pays 3% interest, compounded semi-annually, January and July.

PROPAGANDA BUREAU REJECTED BY A. F. OF L.

Cable Asks for Support for Irish
Freedom—Race Question Causes Debate.

By the Associated Press.
MONTREAL, June 10.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor today rejected a proposal to create a permanent propaganda department to distribute propaganda urging support of the Federation's policy of non-partisanship in politics.

The delegates unanimously adopted a report of the Committee on Organization which recommended that this step proposed by the Central Labor Union of Poplar Bluff, Mo., not be taken at this time, because it was unnecessary and would entail unjustified expense. The proposal included provision for a large campaign fund.

The convention authorized the executive council of the Federation to charter an International Police-men's Union as soon as the membership of local policemen's unions totals 6000. A petition that an international union be chartered was presented by the Oklahoma City local.

A cable message from the Executive Committee of the Irish Trade Union Congress was read urging the federation to demand release of "Comrade" James Larkin, Irish labor leader, and to "use every effort to secure for Ireland the principles for which America is fighting in the war." Larkin now is serving a prison sentence for criminal anarchy after conviction in New York City.

"Color Line" Debate.
After bitter debate the federation adopted a resolution requesting the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks to eliminate the "color line" from its constitution and give the negro full membership. Representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and Southern delegates made lengthy addresses against the negroes' demand for membership, declaring that the negro was being given "a square deal." Other delegates, led by Charles E. Sumner of the Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union, de-manded that the federation insist that the "color line" be abolished by the clerks' brotherhood or revoke its charter. Many times the negro delegates protested against the use in debate of the word "nigger." The objections were sustained.

The convention voted to add the Detroit central body in a campaign to unionize all nonunion workers in that city.

Railroad Ownership Urged.
Government ownership of railroads is urged in a joint resolution presented by seven international unions to the convention. The resolution declares Government ownership is necessary to provide more adequate and cheaper transportation and to eliminate the "sinister influence of railroad corporations from our national life."

The resolution is sponsored by the delegates of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, International Switchmen's Union, Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Sheet and Metal Workers, International Association of Machinists and International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Military training in the schools and the establishment of compulsory military service or training are condemned as "unnecessary, undesirable and un-American," in a resolution proposed by the American Federation of Teachers.

SUSPECT IN WELLSTON MURDER CASE SURRENDERS

John Burns, 26 years old, of 227 Douglas street, Wellston, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Robert Goerlicke of St. Louis County yesterday for the death by stabbing of Elmer G. Burns, 21, of 1532 Wellston avenue, May 6. The two men were not related. John Burns was locked up in the county jail, charged with first degree murder. He will have a preliminary hearing Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriff Goerlicke said an attorney representing John Burns had telephoned him and arranged to meet him with John Burns at the city limits at Wellston yesterday. The meeting was held and Burns surrendered. Goerlicke said he had been trailing John Burns since the stabbing affair.

According to Goerlicke, John Burns confessed stabbing Elmer Burns, saying it was in self-defense when several men attacked him for the second time at a Wellston street fair. Elmer Burns died May 12 at Deaconess Hospital.

IT'S JUST AS YOU'D HAVE IT!

If you were to write down a list of the things that you would want a combination shoe dye and polish to do, you would have before you the qualities of DYANSHINE, the original and only efficient and genuine combination dye and shine preparation. It preserves leather, while most imitating preparations actually ruin leather. Many dyes corrode and eat the metal wires that hold the daubers in the bottles, and you can imagine what they would do to leather. DYANSHINE is free from all ingredients which might be harmful to leather. It takes but a dauber dipped once in the liquid, and then squeezed out, to shine a pair of shoes, and the shine will last a week if occasionally rubbed. 50 shins for 50 cents, the Dyanshine, and it completely dyes all scuffs and scars, or will dye white or tan shoes any of the darker colors. A new way of washing

You just soak your clothes clean instead of the old rubbing and boiling

JUST imagine your clothes washing themselves for you overnight!

Imagine their washing themselves without any washing "machinery" whatsoever—no boiler, no washboard, no washing machine, or suction funnel.

You just put your clothes to soak—with a new soap product.

You have been told so often of machines that would wash your clothes for you, of products that would get the dirt out without any work on your part, that the story of this new product is going to be hard for you to believe.

It is hard to believe that a simple soap product, absolutely harmless, can, just by a soaking overnight, so loosen the dirt in your clothes that when they are rinsed in the morning, all the dirt comes out.

As a matter of fact, if the overnight soaking is inconvenient, three hours soaking will accomplish the same wonderful result.

All you have to do is to take them out and rinse them!

And they are snowy white and clean! Only a few very soiled places, like cuff edges, need a light rubbing between your hands. That is what RINSO is doing for thousands of women who have already secured it. It has changed their whole way of washing.

And those same women felt as you now feel, when they first heard of RINSO'S wonderful results—they couldn't believe it!

And now they are like Mrs. Terry—whose letter is given here—they have found that the old way of washing is gone—and that the new RINSO way of soaking your clothes clean has entirely eliminated the hardest work a housewife has to do—wash-day boiling and rubbing.

Use RINSO yourself this week—see how it really soaks your clothes clean—see if you don't feel just as enthusiastic as Mrs. Terry does.

Get RINSO today from your grocer, and follow the simple directions on the package. It is only 8c. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass. (Makers of Lux.)

"Soaking Clothes is Certainly Easier Than Rubbing Them"
says Mrs. Terry

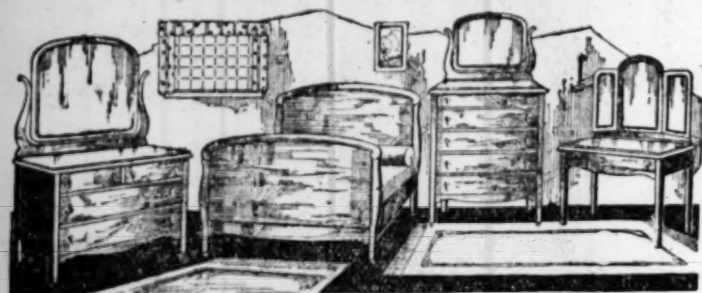

"When I first used Rinsol I thought if it only saved half of the usual rubbing it would be wonderful. The directions for mixing it up were easy to follow—and I got a beautiful sudsy tubful for the clothes to soak in over night. And in the morning—most of the dirt dropped right out in the Rinsol suds, as I swished the clothes up and down. One or two really ground-in spots came out like magic when I put a little dry Rinsol on the spots and rubbed lightly between my hands. Two good rinsings and the clothes were beautifully white and ready for the line at 9 o'clock instead of not till noon. There wasn't any of the exhausting work that washing had always meant before. Soaking clothes clean is certainly easier than rubbing."

EDUCATION BOARD GIVES $470,000 TO WASHINGTON U.

Contribution, in Addition to $1,250,000 Given to Medical School, Announced at Commencement.

UNIVERSITY MUST RAISE $980,000

Gift Conditional on Obtaining of Sum by School, $500,000 of Which Already Is in Hand.

A gift of $470,000 to Washington University by the General Education (Rockefeller) Board, as an endowment for increased salaries of instructors, and additional to the $1,250,000 gift announced a few days ago by the board for the university's medical school, was made public today at the fifty-ninth commencement exercises, by Robert S. Brookings, president of the university corporation.

The gift, a total of $1,720,000, is conditioned on the raising of $980,000 by the university, to make up an aggregate addition of $2,700,000 to the endowment fund of the institution. Brookings said that, in the local campaign thus far, $500,000 has been raised, so that $480,000 more is needed to hold the Rockefeller contribution.

The total of the General Education Board's gifts to the Washington University medical school, including that recently announced, is $2,645,000.

Salaries Increased.
The university board, a few days ago, announced increases of about 35 per cent in the salaries of all instructors receiving $4000 a year or less, including those in the medical school. "The salary increase for the university as a whole will come to $100,000 a year, or 5 per cent on $2,000,000."

In his announcement of the Rockefeller gift, and of the problem of meeting its conditions, Brookings said:

"All universities laboring under the handicap of a fixed income find themselves greatly embarrassed by the high cost of living, which has practically cut their dollar in two."

"For several months we have been making a canvass of the city in our campaign for an increased salary fund and, while we have secured over 2000 subscriptions, the fact that they aggregate only about $500,000 indicates how small many of them are."

"We have few or no rich alumni to whom we can appeal, as is the case with the older Eastern universities. In the years to come it will be different, as our men are to be found in the front of nearly every active growing interest in the city. At present, while their enthusiasm and devotion to alma mater is recorded in probably three-fourths of our subscriptions, the aggregate amount of these is less than $150,000. The corporation, however, values this more highly than all the balance, as it indicates the rapid approach of the time when alma mater can rely upon her children for that advice and support essential to her constantly increasing opportunity for service."

Advisory Board of Alumni.
Brookings said the University corporation had voted to establish an advisory board, through which a representative body of the alumni will be brought into close working contact with the faculty and the corporation, to assist in solving educational and financial problems.

Other gifts to the university received since last commencement were announced as follows:

The Henry Ames fellowship fund, established by Mrs. Lucy Semple Ames by a gift of $10,000.

A fund of $10,000 a year for the next five years, subscribed by the General Education Board and a number of St. Louis citizens for the support of a chair of comparative pathology.

Contributions to the eye clinic endowment fund amounting during the year to $1295.

Contributions of $17,200 made by the United Inter-Departmental Social Hygiene Board to the medical school for research in social hygiene.

Dr. M. F. Engman has obtained, through an anonymous donor, $5000 for the medical school's research work in the causes and treatment of hypertrichosis.

Dr. Ernest Sachs has obtained for the medical school an anonymous contribution of $900 for a fellowship in surgery.

The Rockefeller Institute has contributed to the medical department $615.49, for clinical investigation of traumatic shock.

Dr. Fred T. Murphy has contributed $2000 toward the salary of the dispensary superintendent.

E. C. Elliot has donated to the law school law books to the value of $355.

Building Situation.
As to buildings, it was stated, the most pressing need, a building for the School of Commerce and Finance, has been relieved by the gift of Duncker Hall by C. H. Duncker, Jr. in memory of his son, Capt. C. H. Duncker Jr. The plans for this building, which will be on the north side of and adjoining the library, have been completed and the building is expected to be ready for occupancy in the autumn of 1921.

Brookings, in speaking of the contribution by the General Education Board, said that after the investigation that always precedes gifts by that Rockefeller agency, he was told that the contribution would be made, not only because it was needed, but because the university deserved it. In the past, he explained, there had been several gifts by the board, but always in the proportion of $200,000 or $300,000 to $1,000,000 raised by the university. In the latest instance the gift was in the proportion of about $2 for each $1 raised here.

EDUCATION BOARD GIVES $470,000 TO WASHINGTON U.

The number of degrees conferred was 216, upon 213 candidates, three of whom were awarded two each. There were 230 last year, the difference being in the School of Dentistry, which graduated but three as against 62 last year, the result of lengthening the course from three to four years.

The faculty members of the board of the corporation and candidates for degrees formed in academic procession at Graham Memorial chapel at 9:30, with Prof. Walter E. McCourt as marshal, and marched to the Gymnasium. The program included an invocation by the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, who also pronounced the benediction; an address by Walter Miller, A. M., dean of the graduate school, University of Missouri, and conferring of degrees by President A. Hall. The address by Dr. Miller was on "Success and Happiness."

During the past five months 185 owners of Union Electric preferred stock have sold their shares, through our Securities Department, to 557 new buyers. The price both ways was par for cash.

A good many of the sellers re-invested their money in oil schemes, mining prospects, new manufacturing enterprises and other speculative securities, that PROMISED to pay more than 7 per cent—some promising as much as 12 per cent.

Some of them, we fear, have lost their money. They would have done better to hold on to their safe 7 per cent security.

Union Electric preferred stock is not offered as a speculation. It pays $7 a year in quarterly cash dividends on each $100 share—no more and no less.

It offers the savings investor—the man or woman of small capital—an unusual chance to acquire an owner's share in one of Missouri's largest, cleanest, strongest and safest PERMANENT industries, with a regular and dependable 7 per cent income.

Big investors are not barred—you can buy one share, 100 or 1000, while the remainder of this issue lasts. But we prefer a large number of small shareholders, men and women who have been used to getting only 3 or 4 per cent interest on their savings, and who appreciate this opportunity to get 7 per cent with equal safety.

PRICE: $100 a share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan, under which buyers draw 5 per cent interest on installment payments, and can withdraw all payments, WITH INTEREST, any time before the final installment is paid.

SALES OFFICES: Room 201 Union Electric Building, 12th and Locust Streets, St. Louis, and Union Electric's offices in Franklin, Jefferson, Perry, St. Charles and St. Louis Counties.

MAIL ORDERS: Bank draft, certified check, postoffice or express money order should be sent with mail orders. Address: Securities Department, Union Electric Building, St. Louis, Mo., and make all remittances payable to Union Electric Light & Power Company. Prompt delivery of shares will be made by registered mail.

What Delay May Mean to Owners of Small Cars

The present demand for Goodyear Tires in the 30x3-, 30x3½- and 31x4-inch sizes exceeds anything in our experience, and is steadily showing increase.

Not even our operation of the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes allows us to guarantee to supply all needs for them this year.

We counsel you to buy Goodyear Tires and Heavy Tourist Tubes now, for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, as delay may mean disappointment later.

The safest means to enjoy true Goodyear mileage and economy on your car this summer is to visit your Goodyear Service Station Dealer today.

STOCK MARKET BAGGAGE, LEAVING ON CONVENTION

Call Money Rate of 12 Per Cent Is Without Influence in Trading.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The afternoon rise in call money rates today to 12 per cent, the week's highest rate, had no special influence on the stock market. Investors moved with a uniformity and within a narrow range and the day's changes were entirely irregular. Wall Street began to ascribe the recurrent stringency in call money to preparations for the large mid-year financial settlements. The Steel Corporation's filled order statement showed increase during May of $87,719 tons in orders on the company's books. This leaves the actual present total larger than at the end of any month since June, 1917. The contrast with the existing order book status of some other industries is striking."

"Whether and to what extent the Stock Exchange was influenced today by the political confusion at Chicago was perhaps debatable. It is a little difficult to imagine an active market when without the Republican convention. But the anxiety struggle over not only candidates, but platform, has necessarily added a motive for hesitation to the feeling was rather general on Wall Street that some disturbing uncertainty was being cleared up by tomorrow."

Anglo-French Bonds.

"Sterling exchange advanced again, reaching the highest rate since Wednesday of last week. The Associated Press report of the speech by the Chancellor of the British Exchequer making a more optimistic statement, imperfectly reported yesterday, regarding the Anglo-French maturity. What he actually said was that England has not only redeemed already one-half of her own share of the 5 per cent, but that all the rest is provided for, either by credits established in America or by remittances now on the way. We have yet to hear of the French plans for redeeming their own share of the half portion. They will either advance direct gold shipments or else a three-cornered credit operation by way of London. The Anglo-French rate closed yesterday and today at 99 1/2, which is the highest price ever reached by them. They were floated here at 98 in the autumn of 1918 and never subsequently sold on the Stock Exchange above 98 1/2. Last February they were down to 92 1/2."

Silver Bullion Resources.

"Silver bullion recovered 2 1/2 pence today at London. Considered merely as a movement of reaction in a speculative market, this was not surprising; it might, in fact, have been described as overdone. Within the day's advance from 45 1/2 to 45 3/4, the price followed a continuous decline from 55 1/2 within a fortnight. All of 1919 London bullion brokers have now coming in hand by mail bear evidence of the silver market's failure, until a very few days ago, to grasp the situation fully. One of them written at the close of May can only say that the great stocks of Eastern goods in the United States and elsewhere, and the downward movement in prices of such commodities following the high value of money, are likely to militate against the Chinese export trade and, therefore, against silver remittances to that quarter. This is quite possible, but it does not explain the rapid continuous fall in silver's price since February. The figures of our importation of goods from China and elsewhere during May have not yet been published. But our April imports from China were three times as large as in 1919 and above the monthly average of the present year to date, the total for the first four months being $4,000,000, as against $2,700,000 last year. Manifestly something more than a changing monthly balance of trade with Far East has been at work on the price of silver."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Political Standing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Gen. Wood's campaign is 99.40 per cent cold cash. Lowden's campaign is covered with Missouri mud. The Lodge reservations are entering wedges to destroy the League of Nations. They are also weak and full of bunk.
 Bryan is now a full-fledged has-been. He is for the Lodge reservations. The Republican convention shows stupidity and lack of constructive ideas. Lodge's great speech is full of old platitudes, without even a new idea. He clings to the life of decay—corruption. The President should be a man with independence and with constructive ideas like Schwab, like McAdoo, like Glass, like the great constructive business men of the world, and benefit not only the United States, but all nations.

C. J. GRIFFITH.

The Age of Reform.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Yes, we are endeavoring to establish this world on a safe, sane and sanitary basis, but it will never please everyone. Some people object to animals of various descriptions, but while one person objects to chickens, they may have no objections to horses, cows, dogs or other animals, and vice versa. So, to please all, there is a move on to do away with all animals. Some people object to children and refuse to rent their property to families having such a nuisance. Also children are quite annoying where playing in the street, and they will make noise. There is also quite a percentage of grown-ups who are night-owls, and although they know better, and it is quite unnecessary, persist in making as much or more noise during their night prowls as children playing during the day.
 Now I would be a "reformer," too, but realize there is too much to be done. In fact, all personal rights must be done away with. There are numerous hygienic laws to be enforced, and some people have more children than they can properly care for, but who has the right to judge others wrong?
 So let the "reformers" get busy, for there is an abundance of work to be done before we get this world in such shape that nobody will annoy anyone else.

LIVE AND LET LIVE.

Grand Old Dollar Party.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I suggest an amendment of the Republican party's trade mark "G. O. P." so as to read "G. O. P. as shown in the clipping herewith inclosed." The use of this suggestion, in the manner shown, during the convention at Chicago, and also from time to time during the campaign, might serve to keep before the people a clear apprehension of the power of the dollar in Republican politics.

GEO. R. LOCKWOOD.

Income Tax Refund.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 I have just read an editorial in an edition of your paper dated June 4, under the heading, "How Much Income Tax Refund?"
 You state my computation takes into consideration only the rate. As I understand, from reading the petition and the opinion of the Court, that was the only question raised and the only one decided, consequently that was the only matter considered in making the computation.

I had computed the tax allowing the additional exemptions, but since the question of exemption was not raised in the trial of the case, that part of the amended law was not repealed by the Court.
 I simply made the latter computation because of the general discussion of the matter and to be advised as to its effect on the amount of tax if the question of exemptions had been raised and decided.

Yours truly,
 GEO. E. HACKMANN,
 State Auditor.

Neglected Sprinkling.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 Has the street sprinkling ceased entirely on Florissant avenue from Birchier street to Union boulevard? Yesterday I moved the asphalt and surface into an ocean wave. No doubt the street will be full of holes shortly, as all others. If the sprinkling is neglected during the warm days, why can't it be properly sprinkled and save the poor horses from torture who must drag the entire street with their loads?

HARNEY HEIGHTS TEAM OWNERS.

City No Place for Dogs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
 In your issue of the 4th, there appeared an article—"A Plea for the Dog"—signed by "Old-Timer." If the writer of this sentimental plea will turn to page 1 of the same issue he will find his answer "Dog With Rabies Bites Boy and Three Women." All the dogs in this city are not worth the life of a single person, and instead of referring to our city officials—who are trying to remedy a dangerous evil—as "a bunch of politicians," he should recognize what any one with sense can see—that the city of today is no place for dogs to be permitted to run loose to the danger of the lives of its citizens, particularly our small children.

F. A. G.

INDORSING THE SLUSH FUND.

We know now how the Republican delegation from Missouri to the national Republican convention stands on plutocracy, on the use of money to buy or influence delegates for the nomination of presidential candidates.

By a vote of 23 to 12 the delegation voted to vindicate Jacob L. Babler by keeping him in his place, as national committeeman. Senator Spencer refused to vote; it takes courage to vote against corruption when a man is dependent upon the support of corruptionists for nomination and election to office.

The Missouri delegation has indorsed its sale to Gov. Lowden by party bosses. Will the Republican National Committee vindicate Mr. Babler as the type of man and his conduct as the kind of conduct of which it approves? What will the State Republican Committee do about its chairman, who took the money of two Republican candidates for the presidency? What will it do about other members of the committee who are in the mess? Will the city committee approve the conduct of its money grabbers?

Most important of all, what will the voters of the Republican party of the State do to clear the party's hands? Will they approve or submit to tainted party control? Will they accept and approve tainted committeemen and candidates? The party is seeking to out the Democratic gang in control of the State; it is asking the people of Missouri to put the Republican party in power to clean up and reinvigorate the State government for public service. Undoubtedly, there was an inclination on the part of the independent voters and the independent newspapers of the State to do this. The Post-Dispatch was willing and ready to support a Republican ticket unbound by obligations to corrupt bosses, which gave promise of honest, efficient, progressive government.

But how can independent newspapers and independent voters find a promise of good government in a party directed and controlled by slush-fund bosses? If the party voters complacently accept the rule of corrupt bossism, the party is hopeless. It is dead. It is in the condition of men, concerning whom they say in India, "Their bodies are alive, moving about the earth, but their souls are dead."

It must be confessed that the atmosphere of the Chicago convention is not conducive to political purity. Candidates who profited in the selection of delegates by the expenditure of vast sums, some of it corruptly, have not lost their standing or strength. There is no protest against the purchase of delegates and not a sign of a movement to throw out purchased delegates.

Senator Johnson's managers have issued a card stating that "the high honor of nominee for the presidency of the United States is to be auctioned off at the national Republican convention;" and asking, "What would George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt say about this kind of procedure?"

What does the convention say about it? Nothing—there is no response. The delegates apparently are waiting patiently about until the auction is over, to learn who is the highest bidder and to vote for him under orders.

This is the apparent situation. We hope that money and boss bargaining will not control the presidential nomination of a leading American party, and if it does we hope there is moral health and courage and strength enough in the voters to repudiate the bargain. There is nothing more menacing to the republic than plutocratic control of politics and government. We repeat, the Republican party stands at the crossroads.

GRAPE JUICE IN THE HAUNTS OF "SCOTCH."

In its general machinery, the local option law for Scotland, which went into effect June 1, does not differ so much from our local option laws. However, complications avoided under most of our state laws are made possible in that, each of the 1200 voting districts of the country being supreme in liquor traffic policy, one ward of a city may vote dry while the adjacent ward, separated from it by only a narrow strip of street, may vote wet.

A choice between bone dry and something very far from bone dry is also afforded. In fact, one of the three proposals of the ballot gives the chance to vote for "no change," a test of sentiment more easily afforded by adding the negative votes on the other two proposals. The second proposal is merely for a reduction of 25 per cent in the number of saloon licenses. The third is the so-called no-license, or bone-dry proposal, and still it is far from being bone dry in our sense. It would strictly prohibit the sale of liquor at bars, but would permit it to be dispensed at clubs and licenses revocable because of misuse might be issued to certain hotels for sale to guests only.

Dry Scotchmen, whose number was almost negligible in the beginning, have worked for more than a quarter of a century for this law, which is the first approximation to prohibition in the British Isles. Under it an election may be called on petition of 10 per cent of the voters. The first vote is expected late in the present year.

To think that the original home of "Scotch," hot or cold, or that any considerable part of it, will go dry seems almost as incredible as that, from the viewpoint of 10 or 15 years ago, the home of "bourbon" would go dry. But great areas of Kentucky had local option prohibition even before the catatony of the eighteenth amendment, which cataclysm its assent helped on. And it is predicted that great districts of Scotland, perhaps virtually all of it, will go dry in this first election.

In its concessions to established ideas its law is more practical than ours and seems likely to lead to less scandal in nonenforcement. Reasoning from the analogy of our local option beginning the further prediction that all the British Isles will be dry in a decade or a little more may not be far-fetched.

Of course, all of this prohibition sentiment is directed against the licensed saloon, not against the manufacture or sale of liquor. It is Scotch, not American, dryness that is sought.

ARBITRARY ACTION.

The Post-Dispatch advised the public school teachers not to join a labor union, because we did not think it wise for professional men and women engaged in the public service to affiliate with special organizations representing one element of the population and designed to fight for the interests of that element or group. We did not think they ought to subject themselves to the interests, regulations and orders of such organizations.

There is a difference between counsel against joining such organizations and peremptory prohibition. We believe the School Board has gone too far in prohibiting teachers from affiliating with labor organizations or with any organizations having affiliations with a labor organization. This smacks of arbitrary and tyrannical effort to control the teachers outside of their school relations. The School Board might wisely have expressed its judgment against such application and firmly have dealt with improper conduct growing out of it. It might have dealt with practices inconsistent with public service or inimical to sound education. We understand that one of the conditions of the affiliation of the American Federation of Teachers and the American Federation of Labor is that the teachers are not to be called out on strikes and are not obligated to join in strike action.

The arbitrary resolution of the board is akin to the arbitrary mandate of employers that employees are not to join labor unions. It is inconsistent with freedom. There are better ways of arriving at a satisfactory conclusion.

OUR SECOND OPERA SEASON.

St. Louis' second season of municipal opera at Forest Park has opened auspiciously. In the essentials a substantial advance has been made over last year. A cast of superior talent has been assembled, more artistic stage settings are to be looked for, if the standard reached in the first opera is maintained, and a repertory of truer musical worth has been selected.

There is one other essential, however, if this opera season is to be successful in the fullest sense—attendance. It is well known that this fine project, when launched last year, occasioned complimentary comment all over the country. Following so closely as it did upon this city's distinguished war record, a fact which many reviewers generously noted, it aroused in the public mind a warmer attitude towards St. Louis, and, probably, a keener expectancy. Here was a great city that had sounded a cultural note in a popular, democratic key.

If we are to make that note convincing we must attend those operas. It cannot be done any other way. We must avail ourselves of the opportunity that has been offered us. The summary of this second season ought to show an increase in attendance that will impress upon observers the fact that municipal opera in St. Louis is a success not only artistically, but a success educationally. That St. Louis produces municipal opera under circumstances of exceptional beauty is well known. Let it now be known that St. Louis attends its municipal opera en masse.

OLD AGE FOR COUNSEL.

There are few sadder spectacles than that of old age dedicating the evening of life to revenge and malice. An ancient warrior giving and taking blows stupidly, equally to either fortune in victory or defeat, cheers the eye and gladdens the heart. But when the benediction of old age fails to mellow its recipient with the dignity of wisdom and the virtue of self-restraint, when old age misuses a great occasion to squander its waning time in bitterness—when Cincinnatus fails to calling names he becomes something of a tragedy.

But as we suffer here, so once they suffered aforetime in Jerusalem. The scholarly Senator from Massachusetts seems to have thrust aside that book wherein it is written, "A man full of tongue is terrible in his city and he that is rash in his word shall be hateful."

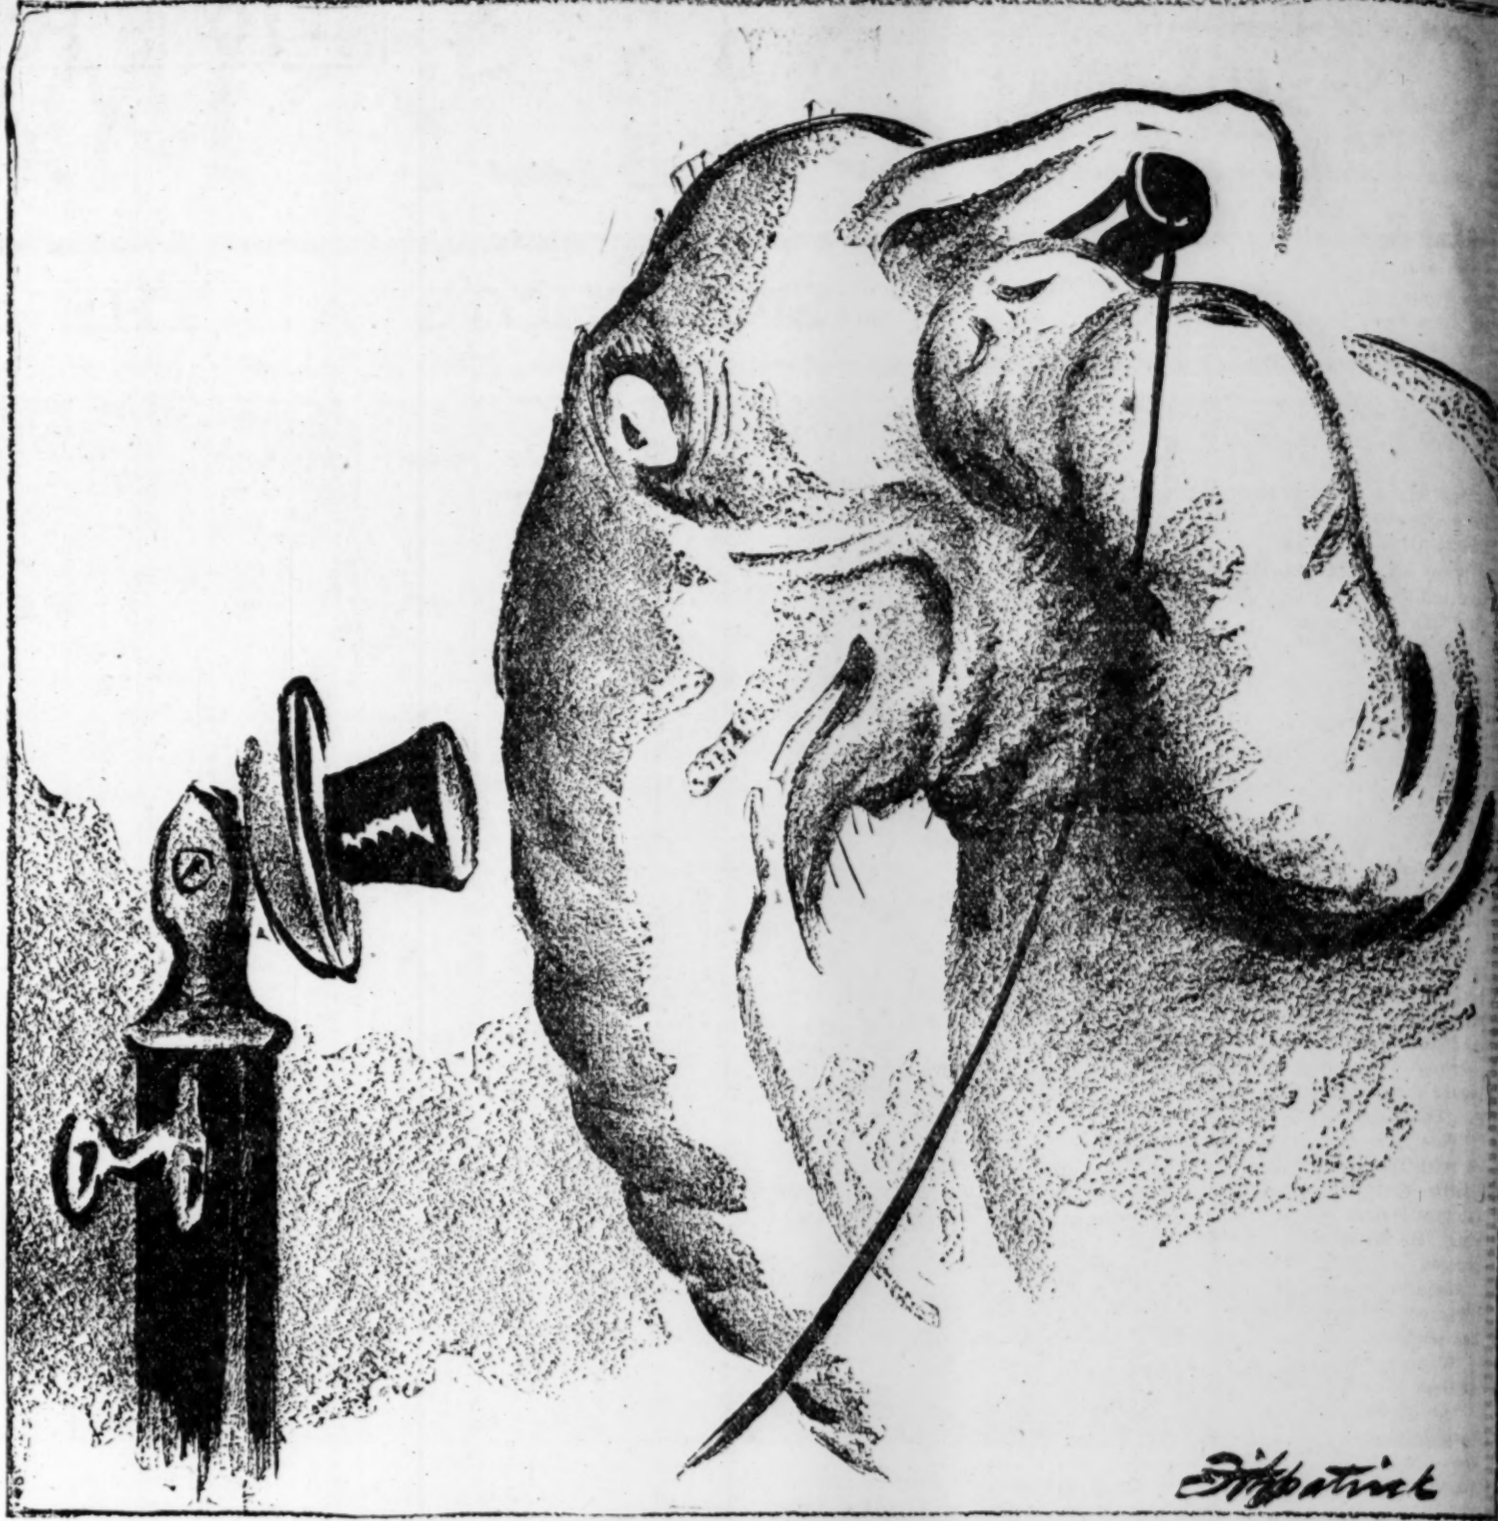

"The income tax law," says a reader in Letters From the People, "is working a hardship on many young married folks." Yes, and on a good many old married folks, too.

By the Supreme Court's decision Rhode Island is invited to come on in—the water is fine.

JUST A MINUTE AT CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Mr. Antwine formally called upon all the candidates yesterday. He says all of them running together could not poll enough votes to elect the Republican ticket the way things are going. However, everybody was still confident at that time of being nominated, and everybody was freely predicting that if anybody else were nominated the Democrats would win in a walk. Their confidence in one another's weakness was beautiful. So far from seeking the man, the office itself, Mr. Antwine says, has been hunted to death. Most of the candidates were in a bad humor, and there was not one of them blamed either false friends or treacherous rivals for his failure to stand out in the race.

However, that feature of the contest, which is natural enough, interested Mr. Antwine less than the way in which everybody in the race was waiting for the party to tell him what sort of platform he is to run upon. Until the platform was announced almost none of the candidates was able to tell Mr. Antwine what he thought. The single marked exception to this was H. Johnson. He knew what he thought, but Mr. Antwine had no great difficulty making out that H. Johnson only thinks so for the purposes of the campaign for the nomination and will continue to think so with his present violence only in case he is not given the nomination as a reward for thinking differently.

Socrates says this is the nicest two-story equation anybody has turned up since we came to Chicago, and he is trying to get a debate with H. Johnson in the expectation of working it out as a new psychological point. H. is a little shy of Socrates, and wants to know what Socrates will continue to think so with his present violence only in case he is not given the nomination as a reward for thinking differently.

Luella also brought in something interesting on yesterday. She says the truest thing anyone has said about women in politics was the observation by Socrates that they are making the same mistake they have always made in love when they thought they could reform a man by marrying him. He says they never can reform the old parties by going into them, and Luella thinks the evidence that this is the case is abundant in Chicago this week. Woman, so Luella says, after looking about, is not a student of politics. She is a bird of paradise. There are no women enjoying equality with men in solving the grave problems of the Republican party in Chicago this week; but the lobby of the Blackstone Hotel is full of women in fine raiment attending the convention, and while the political reporters found the early sessions of the convention dull the society reporters were in a state of continuous excitement identifying amid the splendor of silks and jewels the different grand dames. THE NAVY'S MISTAKE.

A clergyman was a geologist, and always carried his specimens about in a red handkerchief such as navies use to carry their dinners in. One day, as he was going home with it full of specimens he saw a navy at the top of a well, using violent language because the windlass refused to work.
 "My friend," said the parson, "do you know Satan?"
 "No," replied the man, "but I'll ask my mate, Bill," he cried, "do you know Satan?"

A Kansas City woman bought a chain with which to lead her high-priced and high-spirited dog, the other day. On her first venture outside with the dog and the chain, the dog broke the chain and ran away and has not been found.  "My dear madame," said the merchant, "this is what I'll do: I'll give you a new chain."—Kansas City Star.

(The soul, though in essence pure as Him from whom she came, nonetheless doth bear with the body's imperfections, doing His work in the redemption of His travelling creation.)

I AM thy slave, me hast thou bought,
 But the bold bargain affrighteth me not.
 Thou art a man, I am a maid,
 But of thy terrors I am not afraid.
 If in thy breast burneth a flame
 Of aught but pure love,
 I have a spirit shall put thee to shame.

I have such beauty, that if thy strong mind
 From pure love should swerve to actions unkind,
 Each pink and white curve should seem like a
 Of archangel might, defending his lord.

I am all purity, thou art all vile,
 Yet me thy foulness cannot defile.
 Why do I serve thee? Ask me not now,
 Perhaps it was pity that brought me to thee,
 Perhaps but the law of the mystical Three.
 But this I know—I shall never depart
 While thou warmest a ray of true love in thine heart.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

PROHIBITION STILL A PROBLEM.

World's Work for June.
 IF MAY fairly be assumed that national prohibition is a condition which we shall have with us for a considerable period. Yet that does not mean that it is the settled policy of the nation. It fails in practice, it is not unlikely that a revolution may begin which will take it out of the Constitution as suddenly as it was put in. This is not the first "prohibition wave" which has visited the United States. For the 25 years preceding the Civil War this subject agitated the American public almost as much as it has disturbed it in the last 20. By the year 1855 half the states had gone dry—but the reform did not produce the millennium, and all but Maine returned to alcohol. Prohibition, like everything else, must justify itself by its works. If it does not meet the supreme test, then the present amendment will disappear.

RADICALISM IN THE CHURCH.

J. SALWYN SHAPIRO in Atlantic Monthly.
 A DOX beliefs could attract an audience. But today so little interest is there in theological matters that even heresy excites but languid interest. The clerical intellectual has found an answer in these questions. By taking a radical stand on the social problem that is so constantly and so insistently before the public eye, he can reach the enthusiasm of many, and they will fit his church overflowing. From the days of Kingsley and Manning, the preacher of social righteousness has been a potent influence in the community; he has been the representative of an ancient institution, he comes an intensely dramatic figure when he appears as the spokesman of revolutionary ideas. He may not succeed in making converts, but he certainly does succeed in bringing crowds to his church. Some go to hear him out of curiosity, some because he is an able speaker on topics that interest them; others because they devoutly believe that Christianity has another message for the world—the salvation of mankind through social action.

VICTIMS OF THE FOOD BLOCKADE.

From the New Republic.
 IT is hardly possible to doubt the awful truth of the picture drawn by the chairman of the Red Cross. Central and Eastern Europe is, as Mr. Davidson said, the scene of "one of the most terrible tragedies in the history of the human race." It should be added that identically this territory is also the scene of one of the most disastrous political follies in the history of European diplomacy. The wretched peoples are one of the essential links of the blockade, and its chief victims. Even while they starve and decay they are whipped into an insane war. There can be no social restoration without political peace. There can only be success, and that of the most temporary kind. But if the problem is to be met relief must be accompanied by a radical change in the major politics of Europe.

THE VERSAILLES TREATY.

M. HENRY FRANKLIN-BOUILLON in Le Matin.
 What is the underlying reason for the opposition to the treaty in America? It is easy to discover. The whole fight has been directed against the League of Nations covenant, especially Article 10, under which the signatories mutually guarantee their boundaries and spheres of influence as determined by agreement. The post-armistice negotiations have apparently given England the supremacy in world affairs. The United States refuses to recognize this result and still more do I refuse to defend it in the future. This statement is not intended as a criticism of our English allies. But that is the brutal and undeniable fact. And that is what American public opinion is against. It will not ratify what it is unable to prevent. Without the least hostility against us it simply means to maintain its liberty of action for the future.

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

"HEY, Pup! Listen to this: 'Wanted'!"

But Pup was tremendously occupied in subduing a particularly ferocious tiger which lay upon its back and snarled and squaled and spat, kicking at him with all four of its vicious feet. Pup backed off to a safe distance and filled the cabin with mighty barking, advertising himself as the fiercest little dog in the whole desert. The tiger thought it saw an opportunity to make a successful getaway; but Pup had been anticipating just such a move. He rushed and bore it to the hearth again, growling ferociously while he throttled the clawing beast.

"Pup! You ain't listenin' good! You leave poor old Shoestrings alone, now, and listen to me! This here's important!"

Pup reluctantly abandoned his persecution of the bedeviled cat and sat very straight, thumping his bushy tail upon the hearth and looking up with adoring eyes at the face of his master. Shoestrings, left to himself at last, sought shelter beneath the man's chair and smoothed his rumpled fur with the fussy solicitude of an old maid. From time to time he peeped through the rungs at Pup; but he was still too mad to purr. That would come later, perhaps.

Again Johnny Purner smoothed out the crackling copy of the Los Angeles paper and read:

"Wanted—By a strictly respectable woman, to correspond with a man possessing means to support self and wife. Need not be handsome, but must be good-hearted. Address XYZ, care Southland Marriage Bureau. Object, matrimony."

Johnny Purner put the paper upon his knee and looked down to see what his friend thought about it. "Sounds good, eh, Pup?" he suggested.

"Woof!" agreed Pup enthusiastically, and waited, with the extreme tip of his tail thumping the hearth—tentative thumps which on the slightest provocation would resolve into furious wagging. He whined and begged Johnny Purner to proceed.

Absently Johnny read on down through the "Wanted" column. Presently he smiled. For he had read:

"Wanted—Waitress in respectable restaurant. Address Sing Lee, Chuckawalla, California."

"Ole Sing's gettin' more business than he can handle," soliloquized Johnny. "I'm glad. Sing's good Chinaman." And then he dismissed from his mind Sing Lee and the yellow man's business extremity and came back to his own needs.

"Needn't be handsome!" Johnny glanced across at the dilapidated old mirror, cracked, fly-specked and full of wavy imperfections. "It's a good thing I don't have to be handsome, I reckon! 'Good-hearted'!"

Johnny folded the paper and concentrated mightily. His big head, covered with its mass of heavy, neglected hair, never before had known such mental travail. But at the end of the struggle he emerged helpless, with a perplex frown upon his wide, innocent forehead.

"Am I good-hearted, I wonder?" he said. "Hey, Pup! Am I good-hearted?"

Pup had been regarding Johnny anxiously; for never within his recollection had he seen his master so whelmed in thought. In the exuberance of his relief at hearing Johnny Purner speaking again, the little dog did a whirling dervish scamper on the hearth, striving madly to overtake his tail, and falling only by reason of the fact that the tail was a bare half-inch too short.

"Woof!" he yelped again and started upon a wild chase about the room; a mad, Berserker ebullition which upset chairs and scared poor Shoestrings up to the clock shelf, where he crouched and lifted his wriggling upper lip in a nervous show of defiance, growling half-heartedly. He knew that Pup was merely playing; still, it did get on his nerves! Some day, he told himself, he certainly would bust loose and scratch Pup plenty! He was not exactly terrified; nevertheless he swelled out his tail and spat to impress Pup, and then he began dry cleaning his coat once more.

Johnny Purner had gone back to his paper, fascinated.

"Address XYZ, care Southland Marriage Bureau. Object, matrimony." That means gettin' married, Pup! Johnny blushed clear up to the roots of his mane.

For Johnny Purner was bashful! Next to a hopelessly homely woman, the most pitiful thing on earth is a hopelessly bashful man. Love is a field where the strong man gathers his own. Unless a man possesses that certain assurance with which nature has endowed most males he is sure to see the flower of his choice plucked before his halting hand can nerve itself to reach forth. Many a man has lived out his entire life an unheeded hermit in that forest of solitudes where hide the warm, wistful hearts of all bashful men.

But Johnny was no fool. He had a good mind, though perhaps a slow one. It turned this awesome matter over and over, and Johnny's blushes deepened as he thought.

Pup had quieted now and was resting, lying in front of the fireplace with his chin on his paws and his bright eyes rolling up toward the face of his god.

And then a long, long silence. Johnny smoked on dreamily for nearly an hour, while the fire died low in the fireplace and Shoestrings came down from the clock shelf and snuggled up in a little round ball, cuddled in the hollow beneath Pup's chin. Outside in the desert moonlight a Mexican whippoorwill sang softly and a mouse nibbled in the attic. The dying fire ceased to flicker upon the rude walls, hung with clay-streaked garments and shiny lithographs of impossible hunting scenes. Pup was snoring softly in Shoestrings' ear.

"I'll do it!" Simultaneously Johnny Purner smacked the folded newspaper into his big open hand and frightened the peaceful silence in fits. Pup bolted frantically to the door, half asleep, with the hair bristling along his spine and his mouth emitting fearsome yelps—for Pup thought it was burglars. Up on the clock shelf again poor Shoestrings growled and warned whatever it was to keep away from him or get crushed.

And then, quite unthinkingly of the peace he had so rudely disturbed, Johnny Purner got out his unfamiliar writing materials and wrote:

"Dear XYZ: I just read your notice in the paper and I thought maybe I would do. I'm pretty sure I can support self and wife. I don't know whether I'm good-hearted or not; but Pup and Shoestrings think so, and hoping you are the same I am, yours truly, John Purner."

The girl was coming to him, and suddenly Johnny felt a cold paralysis seize all his limbs.

Now this sounds very easy and simple, but truly it was not easy and simple for Johnny Purner. Through it all he had to struggle with his bashfulness and force the words upon the paper. To some gifted people literary composition is like breathing. Johnny Purner was not one of these. Until nearly midnight he toiled, littering the floor with rejected trial sheets. The fire was quite dead and the smoky lamp spitting a malodorous accompaniment to the scratching of his rusty old pen when Johnny at last leaned back and, with a long sigh, decided to let it go at that.

"Correspondence is a tough proposition, ain't it Pup?" he muttered drowsily.

Thump, thump, thump! But Pup was too sleepy to talk. Moreover, he was afraid of waking Shoestrings, who once more slept, curled in a little round ball in the hollow beneath Pup's chin.

III.

It was the day following the writing of the momentous letter to "XYZ," and Johnny Purner was preparing his midday meal. For it was Sunday and Johnny always laid off on Sunday and washed his face with soap.

Johnny was thinking about his letter; and the more he thought about it the worse scared he became. Viewed in the light of day, with the heat of impulse and literary enthusiasm gone, the writing of that letter seemed to him somewhat of a doubtful adventure. Maybe it was a dangerous thing to do—writing to a woman you didn't know! Somebody you didn't even know her name, by grab! Yes, sir! Signing your own name, too! Johnny rolled his head solemnly and gazed with thoughtful abstraction at the frying potatoes.

In the midst of Johnny's absorption Pup came screaming home with an old tomato can behind him. He dashed through the open door and into Johnny's arms, sobbing and whining in a frenzy of pain and terror. Johnny Purner removed the barbarous thing. It had been attached to the little dog's tail by a piece of twisted wire—a most fiendish device.

Johnny suddenly felt no desire for food. He went across the desert to town and got some liniment for Pup. On his way home he had to pass the railroad station. Smith Garrett stood upon the platform, evidently waiting for the train. He had been drinking. "Hello, Purner!" he called, with assumed heartiness. "Been up town?"

"Yes," answered Johnny phlegmatically. "I been to Doc Dofland's drug store to get some liniment. Somebody wired a tin can to Pup's tail. Hurt pore Pup pretty bad."

"You don't say!" Garrett passed his hand across his lips to hide a furtive grin. "Well, Purner," he said, "this is a hard country on dogs—and nuts!" And he sniggered.

But if Johnny understood the double significance of the observation he made no sign. The train rolled in at that moment and Garrett went aboard. As the train started and the smoker glided past the platform Garrett leaned from the window for a parting pleasantry.

"Going to Los Angeles for a week or so?" he yelled. "Going to bust loose. Good-by, Purner, old mine thief! Don't let the squirrels bite you!"

Johnny Purner sat very still before the fireplace that evening and he smoked far more tobacco than usual. From time to time Pup moaned in his sleep and moved restlessly with the pain of his hot, swollen tail.

But Johnny made no bitter comment, even when sympathizing with Pup over his affliction. And this was characteristic of the young man. He was not one to give speech to his grievances. Possibly within himself he voiced hot indignation, but outwardly he was calm, inscrutable of expression and meager of speech. Not even Pup could tell if Johnny Purner boiled with wrath or was merely too stupid to feel the emotions natural to an ordinary man.

It was near midnight when Johnny knocked the ashes from the sooty old cob and put the pipe carefully away in the cigar box on the end of the mantel above the fireplace.

"I reckon maybe you better stick close to me after this, Pup," he remarked. "Yes, sir, I allow it's safer for little dogs. Hey, Pup?"

Pup made a feeble effort to wag his tail, but the exercise hurt too badly. He smiled with his eyes and ears, however, and told Johnny Purner it was all right.

Johnny Purner came down off the butte early next evening, for he had left Pup locked in the cabin that day and he was anxious to see how his patient was getting along. He found Pup much improved. Up on the grubshelf, Shoestrings sat unemotionally beside the can of condensed milk, waiting with the sublime patience of his kind.

Johnny put his bag of drills upon the floor and set about the business of feeding his family. This done, he moved over to the queer little stove; but as he reached for a match to light the fire he paused and considered.

"I reckon I'll go over to town and get my supper at Sing Lee's restaurant," he said. "It's shorely a hardship on a hard-workin' man to have to get his own supper after a long day in the shaft. Yes, sir, I'll go over to town and eat at Sing Lee's, for if I wait until I've fried the spuds and bacon, why, I'll drop right down here and die miserably of slow starvation! Now, you be a gentleman and share your supper with Shoestrings, Pup!"

Pup smiled cheerfully. He might have Shoestrings out of the exuberance of overflowing spirits, but he was a most unselfish little dog. He looked wistfully after Johnny Purner, however, and his eyes begged to be allowed to go along. He would miss his dinner any time in order to accompany his master. But Johnny shook his head.

"It'll be right back, Pup," he said. "You better stick round the house and take care of Shoestrings."

strings. Besides, if you went out you might catch cold in your tail—and then maybe Doc Dofland'd have to cut it off!"

None of Sing Lee's customers had yet arrived when Johnny Purner entered the Chinaman's restaurant and sat down at a table over by the wall. Up at the range, behind the short-order counter, Sing Lee waved a frying pan and grinned.

"Hello, Johnny Purner!" he called.

Johnny grinned back, for Sing Lee was a good fellow. "Hello!" he replied.

"Where Pup?" Sing wanted to know. "Got 'em plenty fine bone for Pup tonight."

"Pup, he's hurt," answered Johnny soberly. "Somebody tied a can to his tail and hurt him awful."

"No good!" Sing stood still, turning over the black news, his eyes deep and black and inscrutable. "Me savy who," he said, with terrible solemnity. "Me savy, you bet yo' life!" Another period of awful concentration. "No good!" he said, in the tone of one pronouncing doom.

But in that moment Johnny Purner forgot Sing Lee, Pup and Pup's tribulations, his supper and all the world besides. For, suddenly, he saw that Sing Lee had a new waitress! It flashed through his mind that Sing had been advertising in the Los Angeles papers. Heretofore the prospective diner had yelled his order at Sing Lee, using direct methods. But Sing's business had grown until such crude devices were of no virtue. The girl was coming toward him, and suddenly Johnny felt a cold paralysis seize all his limbs.

She came and stood beside the table. A pretty, frightened girl. Her hair was golden. She was a little girl. Her hands—Johnny saw her hands, for he dared not raise his eyes after that first scared glance—her hands were little, too, and the palms were calloused, as though with hard work. Johnny ordered something he did not like, but it did not in the least matter, for he could not have eaten it anyway. From time to time Sing Lee called to him in friendly conversation, but his confusion was too great to allow him to answer coherently.

Presently he arose from the table and went home, his mind in a whirl. He did not regard Pup's joyous welcome, which was as the welcome of Ulysses' old hound dog greeting his master's return after long years of eventful roaming in strange lands. Pup was always as extravagantly happy at seeing his master after a 15-minute absence as he would have been had Johnny been gone for 20 years. Shoestrings rubbed against the young man's legs, purring hugely, but he, too, was quite unnoticed. Not until Johnny sat upon the little bench before the fireplace did the world cease to whirl round and round and begin to roll decorously at the rate of 24 hours a day, the same staid old world it used to be.

That girl's eyes were before his mental vision yet! They were good, honest eyes; some instinct inside his soul told him that. Blue eyes, with heavy brown lashes. But what made them wear that look of a frightened rabbit? And what made her start three or four times and throw a scared glance at the street door? It seemed a matter of habit. Why?

Why a Business Girl Should Keep Her Marriage a Secret

By FAY STEVENSON.

"THERE are three reasons why a business girl or a professional woman may wish to keep her marriage a secret:

"1. Because men are apt to speak more freely with a married woman.

"2. Because a single girl has a better opportunity for advancement.

"3. Because there are old-fashioned folk who believe a married woman's place is in her home."

So spoke Mrs. Alexander L. Jones, until two days ago known as Miss Annie Patterson, prominent political leader of Brooklyn women, et cetera, and secretary in the Borough President's office.

Miss Patterson (for she so prefers to be called) is 100 per cent ahead of Miss Hurst's secret marriage, for the author kept her marriage from the public but five years, while Miss Patterson has been married 10 years and none but her husband and her mother suspected that she really was anyone but just "little Miss Patterson."

But at this point the parallel of Miss Patterson's marriage to Miss Hurst's ends.

Miss Hurst breakfasted with her visiting husband but two mornings a week on an average. Miss Patterson had breakfast on an average of seven mornings a week, also dined with him on a corresponding average. Miss Hurst and her musician husband maintained separate establishments. Miss Patterson and Mr. Patterson have lived with her mother continuously since their marriage in 1910. Mr. Jones was looked on as a boarder only. Lastly, Miss Hurst believed that personal freedom was necessary for a happy marriage. Miss Patterson did not wish the personal liberty, but she thought of her business career.

"Now that I am no longer an attaché in the Borough President's office, I am ready to announce my marriage to my friends," said Miss Patterson, who is pretty, vivacious and full of modern ideas for the modern woman. "However, I am now assisting my husband, who is in the theater ticket business, and when I am there I prefer to have the clerks and assistants call me 'Miss Patterson.'"

"And you believe that a 'Miss' is treated with more respect than a married woman in an office?" I asked.

"I know it!" was the immediate answer. "During the 10 years I was a secretary I frequently noted how respectfully the average man treated a single girl, but the moment some of these very men found out that a girl was 'Mrs.' their whole attitude changed. Jokes and subjects which the single girl was spared were broached with a certain familiarity which did not at all please me. So when I married I decided that I would keep the whole affair a secret."

"Then, too," continued Mrs. Patterson, "I believe that a single girl advances much faster than a married one. If there is any vacancy which is desired watch Miss Single step right over Mrs. Muchly-Married every time."

"Then there are a number of men, employers, who think that a married woman's place is in her home. They think that she will have other interests and not give her full attention to her work. Personally I think the single girl is better off in getting married than holding down her job, while the married woman is willing to give her full attention to her work and is frequently far more ambitious than a husband seeker."

"Just at the base of each of the larger ones required more bites. Then he started to cut the trunk up in short logs. At this point Old Mother Nature interrupted.

"Now show us," said she, "what you do with the logs."

Paddy at once got behind a log and by pushing rolled it ahead of him until at last it fell with a splash in the water of a ditch or canal which led from the grove to the pond. Paddy followed into the water and began pushing it ahead of him as he swam.

"That will do," said Old Mother Nature. "Come out and show us how you take the branches."

Obediently Paddy climbed out and returned to the fallen tree. There he picked up one of the long branches in his mouth, seized it near the big end. He twisted it over his shoulder and started to draw it to the water. When he reached the water he began swimming, still dragging the branch in the same way as on land. Again Old Mother Nature stopped him.

"You've shown us how you cut trees and move them, so now I want you to answer a few questions," said she.

Paddy climbed out and squatted on the bank. "How did this canal happen to be here so handy," asked Old Mother Nature.

"Why, I dug it, of course," re-

BURGESSE BEDTIME STORIES

By Thornton W. Burgess.

OLD Mother Nature led the way around the pond of Paddy the Beaver to a little grove of poplar trees, which stood a short distance back from the water. Paddy was already there.

"Now," said Old Mother Nature, "show us what kind of a lumberman you are."

Paddy chose a small tree, sat up at the foot of it much as Happy Jack Squirrel sits up, put his big flat tail on the ground to brace himself, seized the trunk of a tree in both hands and went to work with his great orange-colored cutting teeth. He bit and pried out a big chip, then another and another. Gradually he worked around the tree. After a while the tree began to sway and crack. Paddy bit out two or three more chips, then suddenly slapped the ground with his tail as a warning and scampered back to a place a few feet from the tree.

"The tree fell and at once Paddy returned to work. The smaller branches he cut off with a single bite at the base of each. The larger ones required more bites. Then he started to cut the trunk up in short logs. At this point Old Mother Nature interrupted.

"Now show us," said she, "what you do with the logs."

Paddy at once got behind a log and by pushing rolled it ahead of him until at last it fell with a splash in the water of a ditch or canal which led from the grove to the pond. Paddy followed into the water and began pushing it ahead of him as he swam.

"That will do," said Old Mother Nature. "Come out and show us how you take the branches."

Obediently Paddy climbed out and returned to the fallen tree. There he picked up one of the long branches in his mouth, seized it near the big end. He twisted it over his shoulder and started to draw it to the water. When he reached the water he began swimming, still dragging the branch in the same way as on land. Again Old Mother Nature stopped him.

"You've shown us how you cut trees and move them, so now I want you to answer a few questions," said she.

Paddy climbed out and squatted on the bank. "How did this canal happen to be here so handy," asked Old Mother Nature.

"Why, I dug it, of course," replied Paddy, looking surprised. "You see, I am rather slow and clumsy on land and don't like to be far from water. Those trees are pretty well back from my pond, so I dug this canal to bring the water as near to them as I could. It makes it much safer for me if Old Man Coyote or Yowler the Bobcat or Buster Bear happens to be looking for a Beaver dinner. Also it makes it much easier to get my logs and branches to the pond."

Old Mother Nature nodded. "Just so," said she. "I want the rest of you to notice how well this canal has been dug. It is plenty wide

"Gracious Auntie! Cook has a hat just like yours." "Yes, dear! After she bought hers they slashed the price—then I could afford one, too."

enough and deep enough to float those logs easily. At the other end it is carried along the bottom of the pond where the water is shallow and so gives proper depth. Now you will understand why I called Paddy an engineer. You know an engineer is a planner and maker of roads and canals and similar things.

"When Paddy works," he works with all his might, and he is always ready to work when work is to be done. When he plays he plays with all his might. In that way he gets fun out of both work and play, which is quite what every one should do."

HOME ECONOMICS

By Mrs. Elizabeth Kent.

WHY KEEP HOUSEHOLD ACCOUNTS?

TO most housekeepers keeping accounts means a burden. This may be because they use poor methods, or have had no training and are frightened by a task they do not understand, or it may be that because of other household duties, they neglect their accounts, until they will not balance and are abandoned in despair.

The aim is not to be able to account for every cent at the end of the month, although detail-loving women take a pride in such accuracy. But a business man has to carry a miscellaneous account in which to jot down many small losses, yet he goes on keeping books because they give him, on the whole, a fairly accurate record of all his business transactions. That is the only way in which he can really compare income and outgo, and know where he stands, and find out why he stands there. It is the same with household money. The housewife may not be able to afford the income, but she can arrange the outgo, in many ways, had and good.

Household accounts should show the expenditures for each department, such as rent, fuel, clothing, furniture, doctor's bills, education, etc. A card system lends itself easily to such detail, and also to expansion into subheadings. For example, under food, there may be such divisions as meat, fish, groceries, milk and butter. Clothing might be subdivided on cards for each member of the family, even for the baby.

A summary for the year should be made on a card for the purpose, and there is no doubt that such a system, even if kept rather lamely, will make for intelligence and economy in expenditure.

A careful account, because it shows what articles of clothing and food and utensils have been bought, and at what price, is a good guide in making estimates.

The Traveling Man.

Consider now the traveling man,
With his smile; with his hustle; his grip;
Could you be good-natured as he always is.
If you had to make so many trips—

And see the same faces,
And hear the same jokes,
And catch midnight trains,
And give away smokes?

And write up your orders,
And hear hard-luck tales,
And ride on mixed trains,
With a pace like a snail?

And stop at hotels
That are dismal and dank,
And eat food that's awful,
Drink coffee that's rank?

And get home on Sunday,
All tired and worn,
And rest up so you
Could go out Monday morn?

If you stop to consider the traveling man,
If he looks sorta tired and tough,
Remember the road he is traveling,
son.
Is mostly up-grade, and dern tough.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

THE LUCKY CANDIDATE.

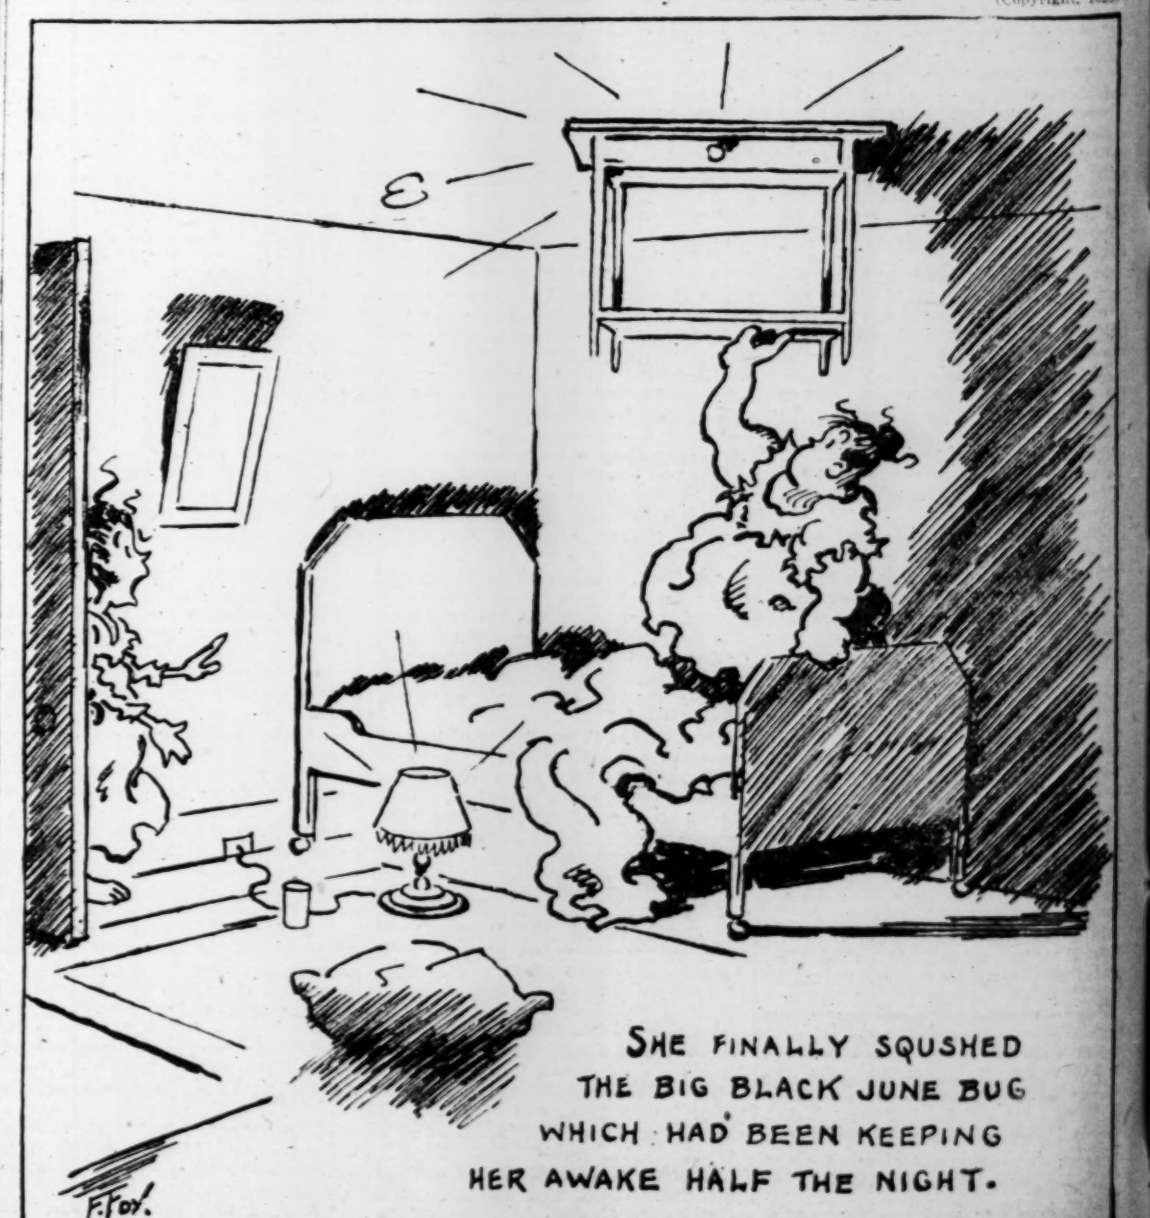

The big party candidates soon will set out
To hustle around for the votes,
And speak night and day as they speed on their way,
Till they wear all the bark from their throats.
But Debs will recline in a cool, cozy cell,
Look out at the sweltering sky,
And dreamily smile as he murmurs the while,
"Say, Warden, I'd like some more pie!"
He'll not spend the summertime rushing about
It's lucky for him that he cannot get out!

The big party candidates soon will be forced
To lie to them to chowders and balls,
And wilt with fatigue while they talk on the league
In Redmen's and Oddfellows' halls.
But Debs will send out for the solitary deck,
Play over the games that he knows,
Or calmly peruse the political news
Till the hour arrives for repose.
It's lucky for him that he's forced to refrain
From making a gruelling, killing campaign.

The big party candidates soon will receive
Their faithful supporters in mobs,
Rich boosters and poor, all keen to secure
The promise of good paying jobs.
But Debs, when informed that a crowd is outside
And still larger crowds are expected,
Each eager to grace a good Government place
Provided, of course, he's elected.
He'll say with a gentle and humorous grin,
"Say, Warden, just tell the whole gang I'm not in."

FAMOUS CHINESE GAMBLING DEN TO BECOME CHARITY HOSPITAL

Shanghai Authorities to Squeeze "The Wheel," One of the Biggest Establishments in Far East.

SHANGHAI, June 10.—The great gambling establishment in this city, notorious for years under the name of "The Wheel," which originally cost more than $500,000, is to be converted into a charity hospital. The Chinese authorities have announced that they intend to confiscate the huge building which now stands dark and empty. Its owners, however, threaten to fight this program.

Up to about three years ago, when the place was closed by Chinese authorities, "The Wheel" in Shanghai was one of the biggest gambling establishments in the Far East. It was in Chinese territory on North Hsiaoan road, a 15-minute automobile ride from the heart of the city. In the days when the establishment flourished, three roulette wheels with six layouts, besides faro and other games, were operated. After this establishment was closed as the result of the efforts of missionary interests, no open gambling on any large scale was permitted in Shanghai until last fall, when the interests that formerly operated "The Wheel" opened near it a smaller roulette establishment, which, in turn, was closed after a few weeks.

GOVERNOR TO CALL SPECIAL SESSION THIS SUMMER

Critical Situation in Grain Department, Retirement of Capitol Bonds, Tax Reductions to Be Considered.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 10.—

The Post-Dispatch correspondent learned today that Gov. Gardner will call a special session of the Legislature to meet on the day after the primary election or on the next day.

A crisis which has arisen in the Grain Department, the necessity for immediate reduction of the income and corporation franchise taxes, the

$1,770,000 in the revenue fund with which the Governor wishes to pay off the capitol bonds, and the demands of both St. Louis and Kansas City for the immediate passage of laws which will enable them to pay their police officers more money, are the reasons which led to the decision to call an extra session.

Waited on Suffrage.

The Governor has postponed the calling of an extra session expecting that the thirty-sixth state would ratify equal suffrage, which would enable him to include that in his call, but the failure to ratify and the pressure for settlement of these other questions have forced the calling of the extra session, which probably will be formally announced within a few days.

The Governor first was inclined to call the session for the middle of July, but that date was rejected because the primary campaign, in which members of the Legislature will be engaged, will be in full swing at that time. The date then, he is said to have decided, will have to be immediately after the primary, so that the way can be cleared for members of the Legislature to attend the party platform conventions.

Grain Appropriation Spent.

The situation in the grain department is said to be critical. The Governor said today that the appropriation for the grain department has been spent and that, under the new Federal law regulating grain shipment, not a carload of grain could be shipped into or out of Missouri after Aug. 1, unless it is inspected by the State.

The Governor also is determined to stop the piling up of funds in the treasury from the income and corporation franchise taxes. He will suggest to the legislature in his special message that the corporation franchise tax be reduced 50 per cent and the income tax be reduced to the old 1917 basis of one-half of one per cent from the present rate, which is 1 1/4 per cent.

The Police Situation.

The police situation in Kansas City is said to be much more critical than in St. Louis though both are clamoring for an enabling act to increase salaries. A large number of old police officers in Kansas City are quitting the force for more remunerative jobs, and the recent crime wave in that city is attributed to the inefficiency of the police force, which in turn is charged to the meager salaries which police officers receive.

The Governor also feels that his business administration will be well rounded off, if, in addition to paying off the $2,225,000 State debt he inherited from the Major administration, he can use the $1,750,000 surplus now in the revenue fund to pay off the remaining $1,600,000 of capitol bonds and repeal the 2 per cent tax which amounts to $60,000 a year to pay the interest on bonds.

Are You Human?

A little baby. A little child. Don't they appeal to you? Doesn't your heart yearn to pick them up, to cuddle them close to you, to shield them from all harm? sure it does else you're not human. Being human you love them. Their very helplessness makes you reach out in all your strength to aid them. In health there's no flower so beautiful. In illness there's no night so black.

Save them then. Use every precaution. Take no chance.

When sickness comes, as sickness will, remember it's just a baby, just a child and if the Physician isn't at hand don't try some remedy that you may have around the house for your own use.

Fletcher's Castoria was made especially for babies' ills and you can use it with perfect safety as any doctor will tell you. Keep it in the house.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Do the People Know?

Do you know why you are asked to call for Fletcher's Castoria when you want a child's remedy? why you must insist on Fletcher's?

For years we have been explaining how the popularity of Fletcher's Castoria has brought out innumerable imitations, substitutes and counterfeits.

To protect the babies: to shield the homes and in defense of generations to come we appeal to the better judgment of parents to insist on having Fletcher's Castoria when in need of a child's medicine.

And remember above all things that a child's medicine is made for children—a medicine prepared for grown-ups is not interchangeable. A baby's food for a baby. And a baby's medicine is just as essential for the baby.

The Castoria Recipe (it's on every wrapper) has been prepared by the same hands in the same manner for so many years that the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and perfection in the product are synonymous.
